Backing for McGovern Leads Early Presidential Campaigning Here

Princeton has always been a town that's responsive to — even passionate about — issues.

And every four years, as the Presidential drums begin to roll, Princeton begins to form its committees, send out its mailings and rouse the countryside to come to the aid of the Republic.

In this season of primaries, the Democratic candidates with the greatest Princeton support are George McGovern and Edmund Muskie. The size and strength of Senator McGovern's Mercer County (and Princeton) organization is quite probably a reflection of the kind of support and organization that brought him his clear-cut victory in Tuesday's Wisconsin primary.

The enthusiasm for Eugene McCarthy that set daisies blooming on bumper stickers in 1968 is scarcely visible at all. Nor is there much interest in Hubert Humphrey carried over from '68.

The Mercer County Co-ordinator for McGovern in New Jersey is Mary Vuglen, who lives on the Brunswick Pike and manages about 300 active volunteers who live anywhere from Hightstown to Hopewell, plus more who live in Trenton.

For Princeton residents, the name most closely associated with McGovern is Ann Martindell. However, Mrs. Martindell is fastidious about her support for Senator McGovern because she holds the position of vice-chairman of the Democratic State Committee.

"As an individual, I endorse McGovern," is the way she puts it, adding that she acts "in an advisory capacity" in his campaign. Mrs. Martindell cleared with Salvatore A. Bontempo, Democratic state chairman, a letter to loyal Democrats announcing her personal support "as an individual" of McGovern.

"We have a winner in McGovern," Mrs. Martindell declared on Monday, the day before the Wisconsin victory, "and if he wins the blue-collar vote as well as the liberal vote, we have not only a winner, we have a President." In Wisconsin, a good portion of Senator McGovern's 30% came from blue collar districts.

At the invitation of the national McGovern organization in Washington, Mrs. Martindell flew to Wisconsin early Tuesday morning to watch the primary at first hand.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Vuglen is commanding her volunteers. In early March, she opened a Princeton office at 163 Nassau in the headquarters of the Fund for Peace Education.

This desk and its busy volunteers cover all suburban areas, including East and West Windsor, Pennington and Hopewell Township, as well as the Princetons. Another Trenton office handles Hamilton, Ewing and all of Trenton.

Back in '68, incidentally, Mrs. Vuglen was working hard for Robert Kennedy and Mrs. Martindell was working hard for McCarthy, "and we hardly spoke to each other!" Mrs. Vuglen laughs.

McGovern office co-ordinators, working with Mrs. Vuglen, are Scott Higgins and Marty Krasney, both of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowship.

McCrohan to Retire as Borough Police Chief; Carnevale Named to Replace Him August 1

Chief Peter J. McCrohan, who served on the Borough police force longer than any other man, will retire August 1, 1972, bringing to an end a 37-year career.

The 59-year-old Chief in making the announcement Tuesday said, "I've always enjoyed working for the Borough. I've come to know a lot of people and I have no regrets. But I realize life moves on. The job is getting more complicated and it's time to get out and give someone else the job." He has served as chief since Nov. 1, 1961.

Both Chief McCrohan's resignation and the appointment of his successor, Lt. Michael Carnevale, will be officially announced next Tuesday evening at the regular monthly meeting of Borough Council. Lt. Carnevale is appointed by the mayor with the advice and consent of Council. His appointment as Chief has Council's consent and Mayor Robert Cawley said Tuesday that he expects it to go through.

Lt. Carnevale, 40, joined the force in 1955. He was named lieutenant in 1968, when Lt. Francis Maguire resigned to become Chief of West Windsor Township police.

"I highly recommend Lt. Carnevale," said Chief McCrohan. "I think he is an excellent officer, highly qualified. The Borough is very fortunate to have such a man."

Vacancies to Be Filled. Written examinations for Sgt. and Lt. will be given this Saturday. Later, an oral examination and review before the Borough Police Committee will be given candidates. The new officers are expected to be named by September 1 or before.

"This is what I've been fighting for for a long time — more superior officers," commented Chief McCrohan. Princeton, he said, is one of the few towns of its size in New Jersey without a captain.

Chief McCrohan, member of a family that has long had its roots here, is as much a part of the Princeton scene as the Palmer Square tiger. He will be missed.

At his press conference Tuesday, Mayor Cawley spoke of Chief McCrohan's long and distinguished career. "The 11 years he's been head of the department have been the roughest time I know of for any police chief," he said. "I think of student unrest, racial tensions and the other forces unleashed by social change."

"He has coped with the effects of these changes and he will be missed — at Borough Hall and by the people who have known him a long time."

Joined July, 1935, McCrohan joined the force on July 22, 1935, when he and more than 50 other applicants took the test for probationary patrolman. "It was a sought after job," he recalled, "because there was no work around at the time."

He and George Knowles (later a Borough detective) and Frank Bird joined the same day. Both Knowles and Bird have long since died.

There were 10 uniform men on the force then and salary was about $100 a month. "It took 10 years just to work up to top grade for patrolmen then," Chief McCrohan recalled, which was about $1800 a year — "and we worked six days a week."

Chief McCrohan was appointed a patrolman in September, 1936 — the year the force received its first patrol cars. Until then, members got around on a pair of Indian motorcycles. In March, 1953, he was named the Borough's first juvenile officer.

In January, 1955, he was promoted to sergeant; in December, 1959, to lieutenant and two years later, in November, 1961, he became chief, when his predecessor, Raymond Mondone resigned. Chief Mondone, who had taken the test for patrolman at the same time as Chief McCrohan, served 33 years before stepping down.

Chief McCrohan thus became the seventh head of the Borough force, formally organized in 1922. "I've served under seven mayors," Pete said, "starting with Joseph Hoff, Mr. Princeton."

WANT EXTRA INCOME? A temporary or part-time job may be the answer. Read the Help Wanted ads in this issue of TOWN TOPICS for a varied selection of opportunities open to you.

Others following in line were Charles R. Endman, Minot C. Morgan, P. MacKay Sturges, Raymond Male, Henry Patterson and Robert Cawley. "They were all fine gentlemen. Looking back, I don't think I ever had a harsh word with any one of them."

Chief McCrohan reported that he first mentioned his intention to retire in October, 1971 before a meeting of the Borough Personnel Committee. "I'm 59 now and I'm not going any longer than 60." (He could stay on six more years). "I told them I would like to retire from the department before the end of 1972."

No Immediate Plans. When asked what he intended to do when he retired, Chief McCrohan replied that he had all kinds of little jobs around the house that he has been putting off for the past 10 years. "I'd like to attend to those," he said.

He added that he would like to take a vacation as long as his terminal leave lasts and then try something different. "I have a couple of irons in the fire," he said.

In his years on the force, Chief McCrohan recalled, that he had seen police work change from a job that was essentially foot patrol to one that has become specialized. "It's too much work for a chief today; that's why I keep saying there is a definite need for more superior officers."

"It's become more public relations than police work," he said. "I talk to people all day long; I have no time to get any real work done."

"People with a parking ticket come in and want to talk with me. I just can't push them away — even though there is nothing I can do about it."

"I never leave here before 6:30 or 7:00 at night. The other day a woman called and said she wanted to see me for 10 minutes. She was here over an hour."

It is no surprise, then, that his announced retirement comes with the full support of his wife, the former Edna Morris. They have three children — Patricia, a secretary in Marina Del Ray, California; Mary, a teacher in San Francisco; and Peter R. Jr., attending the College of the South in Seawane, Tenn. A trip to the west coast to see his daughters and "a little traveling" is high on the McCrohan list when he retires.

In contrast to the 10-man force when he joined 37 years ago, the chief leaves behind as he prepares to step down a force numbering 28, plus two metermen, a secretary and a police cadet. One of the sights familiar to many was Chief McCrohan patrolling Nassau Street in his uniform.

"Yes," he acknowledged, "there is a trend among police chiefs today not to wear a uniform. It's become passe. I'm getting away from it myself," he added, smiling at his little bit of Irish whimsy.

"But I didn't mind," he added. "I was never ashamed to wear it."

all volunteers according to their areas of interest: voter registration, canvassing, public relations, fund-raising, hospitality. A master booklet has all of McGovern's views on various issues.

Last Saturday, for example, volunteers fanned out to all hopping centers in Mercer County, to the corner of Nassau and Witherspoon and to the intersection of State and Broad in Trenton, passing out the 5,000 leaflets quoting McGovern on inflation and economic issues.

"We thought it was a good thing to do—the Saturday before Easter," Mrs. Vuglen explains.

Money to finance this activity was raised at a recent dinner-dance. Gross receipts were $1,800 and there was a $1,200 profit ("better than we expected—no county in New Jersey has raised so much," the co-ordinator says.)

Sources of Manpower. Volunteers are recruited from lists Mrs. Vuglen regards as precious treasures. They are membership lists of liberal Democrats, peace groups, the Princeton Community Democratic Organization.

These volunteers are given the names of ten people to telephone, with the instruction made plain: "If they say they're for Muskie, don't argue."

The Muskie organization has its headquarters in Trenton, but its director is from Princeton. She's Elaine Schumann, of Jefferson Road, active for many years in Democratic politics, and now Executive Director of the New Jersey Committee for Muskie.

Speakers in Demand. Much of Mrs. Schumann's full-time job consists of answering requests for speakers and for campaign materials. She travels around New Jersey, organizing citizens' groups, keeping county co-ordinators informed, taking the Muskie literature.

Also, delegate selection isn't very familiar yet so Mrs. Schumann patiently explains the complex new mechanism for selecting delegates. She herself will present her credentials as a Muskie delegate at the meeting on April 22, when delegates will be chosen.

Recent Muskie developments have not been particularly cheerful. After the weak showing in New Hampshire and the defeat in Florida, Mrs. Schumann said philosophically that "these are just two stages on the way, and I hope Muskie will do much better.... it depresses me that newspapers make every primary do-or-die. It simply means that a lot of money must be spent by Democrats, everywhere!"

She conceded that "Muskie must pick up some strength and we're quite sure he will."

But last week, he seemed to lose some strength, at least in New Jersey. Former governor Richard J. Hughes and Senator Harrison A. Williams were apparently pulling back from their announced support of Muskie, and leaning toward a coalition slate consisting of people who support both Muskie and Hubert Humphrey.

Mr. Hughes on Monday reaffirmed his support of Muskie to Mercer County Democratic Chairman Richard J. Coffee. Mrs. Schumann says, but she added that she wouldn't be surprised to see a coalition slate.

Some of the Reasons. Why Muskie? Why McGovern?

"I think the Democrats must be realistic about beating Mr. Nixon," Mrs. Schumann says, "and I have always felt that Mr. Muskie was the man who could win."

"McGovern's moral leadership is the key to my support," Mrs. Martindell says. "His absolute incorruptibility: he really is what Muskie SAYS he is."

The McCarthy supporters, who used to talk like this four years ago, seem in Princeton to be engaged in only a quiet holding operation. Headquarters at 195 Nassau are open only sporadically, the telephone is out of service, the chairman lives in Trenton. At a meeting of all candidate representatives called by Mr. Coffee, no one came to represent McCarthy.

There is activity in town, however, for Shirley Chisholm. Mrs. Martindell reports that "Chisholm people are constantly in touch with us" and if Mrs. Chisholm steps down, there is great hope in the McGovern camp that her black supporters will turn to McGovern.

Marion Humphrey, a senior at Princeton, is co-ordinating the state campaign for Shirley Chisholm, and he has a Mercer County organization working out of 126 North Montgomery in Trenton. Half a dozen Princeton residents have volunteered to help, Mr. Humphrey reports.

$4 Million Condominium Project Started

Ground was broken Monday for the first of 76 town houses to be built on a ten-acre site bordered by Hamilton Avenue and North Harrison Street. Value of the project has been estimated at $4 million by the backers, Fulmer & Bowers, Princeton architectural firm, and the Sandean Construction Co.

O. Kline Fulmer said that four sample units will be built first, with completion expected in July. The luxury condominiums will average four units to the buildings, and will range in size from two to four bedrooms.

Two stories in height, the town houses will all be provided with basements and garages. Following completion of the sample units, to be used for inspection and sales purposes, construction will proceed as the demand requires, Mr. Fulmer said.

Initially known as Townsend Commons, the development will henceforth be known as Queenston Commons. Plans for its construction were first placed before the Borough Planning and Zoning boards three years ago by another builder. Approval encountered a variety of delays, with the present architects and construction firm assuming responsibility for the project in recent weeks. William Baggett is serving as their attorney.

Rusty Scupper, a proposed restaurant on Lower Alexander below the car-wash, received site plan approval, but they will have to build a sidewalk. The two-story rustic restaurant will be constructed on three lots now owned by Harold Houghton. Chief backers are Leighton Laughlin and Charles Greathouse. The restaurant would be one of a small chain of "Rusty Scuppers," located chiefly in California.

Because restaurants aren't a permitted use in this township Service Zone, the backers must go before the Township Zoning Board. They've been blocked in for the April 20 meeting.

They also need a parking variance: if they decide to expand the proposed building.

WATER FLOWS DOWNHILL

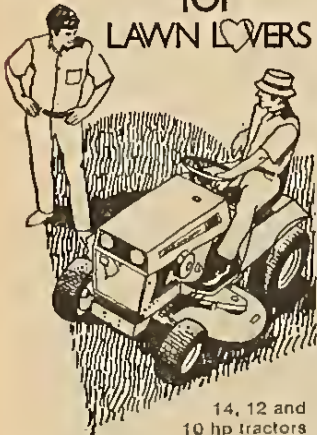

Into Township. Borough water, cascading headlong into Harry's Brook and eventually into Township basements, gave the Planning Board pause Tuesday night as it considered new Borough building proposals on Nassau near Harrison.

On the other side of town, off Mercer Road, six lots for faculty homes at the Institute for Advanced Study won Planning Board approval. Both Institute and Board had agreed to set aside Institute plans for clustered homes on the Weller Tract, still being sought by the state to add to Battlefield Park.

After Tuesday's meeting, Bernard Daly of the state's Department of Environmental Protection, said he expected agreement on purchase of the tract by May 1. The state's price is said to be $350,000 for 77 acres of land.

The Institute's six new faculty homes will be built over a ten year period, the Institute's manager, Minot C. Morgan Jr., assured the board.

Blacktop! Back on Nassau Street, the First National Bank explained to the board its plans for a remodeled East Nassau Street Branch, just east of Harrison, with 20 additional parking spaces, all on blacktop. The board listened uneasily.

Runoff into Harry's Brook comes from Borough development," said Township Mayor John D. Wallace bluntly. "First there was Lloyd Terrace, now the new condominium on Hamilton, and the bank's additional parking, and possibly a new office building, and it all means more blacktop and more drainage into Harry's Brook."

Borough engineer Donald Harney said the Borough had asked the state a year ago to install better storm drains on Nassau, but the state had said no.

"There is no drainage on Nassau from Harrison to Snowden Lane," Mr. Harney said gloomily.

The Borough engineer added that drainage for many homes in the area is illegally connected into the sanitary sewer because there is no place else to send the water. It could flow out into Nassau Street and freeze in the winter.

The state said the Borough should tell property-owners to pump it into the street anyway, Mr. Harney reported. "Then if it freezes and is a problem, we'll take care of it," the state said.

When Mr. Wallace asked if the Borough had ever considered building its own Nassau Street storm sewer, Mr. Harney paused and said, well, no.

Office Space. Deciding to consider the branch bank's site plan in executive session, the board moved around the corner to an office building on North Harrison proposed by Benedict Yedlin.

This is a different plan from the Yedlin proposal rejected last month by the Borough Zoning board. It is a smaller building and has all parking on its own lot, in the rear. The two-story structure of 6,300 square feet will face on Harrison next door to the Princeton Gourmet. Site plan approval was granted. Mr. Yedlin doesn't have to go the Zoning Board route with this building.

More Planning. William H. Walker, a Borough member of the Planning Board, declared that the Borough must drastically revise its Master Plan and Zoning Ordinance to make sure that development in the Borough doesn't dump water into Harry's Brook.

"We must anticipate what services are required as developments come along," Mr. Walker said.

He pointed out that Mr. Yedlin's lot, which he plans to buy from Princeton Plaza, is one of the few lots in the neighborhood that has adequate drainage.

"Yes," Mr. Harney said eagerly, "Mr. Yedlin can connect into a fine storm drain that runs right down Harrison... and into Harry's Brook."

W. Windsor Mayor Firman

they will need 19 more parking spaces, and they would like to use the area around the "islands" of the car wash next door.

The idea is that car washes are closed at night and restaurants are open at night, so the ground space could serve a dual purpose.

"You mean you don't plan to be open in the daytime?" asked Planning Board member James A. Floyd incredulously. "Haven't you ever heard of football Saturdays?"

Don Burnett, speaking for the Scupper chain, said his firm hadn't been aware of the autumn Saturday situation in Princeton, but might reconsider.

CONSULTANTS SOUGHT

As Volunteers in W. Windsor, West Windsor Township residents with special experience or knowledge are being offered a unique opportunity to become involved with their government. Township officials are inviting members of the community with background in areas of governmental concern to register at Township Hall as volunteer consultants.

These areas of concern range from finance to public works, from conservation to housing, from recreation to industrial development. In fact, wherever the township government touches the life of the community, experience is sought.

"Because of the depth and variety of professional experience that has turned up in applications for Township boards and committees," Mayor Melvin Firman said this week, "we feel there may be many residents about whom we don't know who can also contribute significantly to the community." This invitation is aimed at them.

"A few years ago it was possible to know just about everybody in the Township," the Mayor pointed out. "We knew pretty well what occupations each other had and who to ask for advice on a specific problem."

"Now, with so many new residents and with the increasingly complex demands on local government, we would welcome more help from residents with relevant experience. Too often we don't know where to look locally. Through this registry of potential consultants, we will know who is knowledgeable in what area."

Time a Major Factor. "We realize that qualified people frequently lack the time to serve on committees or to attend scheduled meetings," added Stefan Guzy, Township Committeeman. "However, we hope that these same busy people will be willing to register to serve as ad hoc consultants."

"West Windsor Township has had to seek professional help from outside specialists, such as the current report on land use in our Township from Smith Associates," Mayor Firman commented. "Still I see no reason to ignore local expertise. It can be valuable sometimes for recommendations about which kind of outside expert to call."

"These volunteer consultants will have an unusual opportunity to bring their own special knowledge to bear in the development of their immediate environment. It should also encourage wider participation in community life," the Mayor concluded.

Those willing to serve as volunteer consultants are asked to contact Miss Janet Wilson, Township Hall, Princeton Junction, or to call her at 799-0619 between 9 and 4 for the Consultant Registry Application.

EXPAND POLICE GROUP?

Rights Commission Hopes So. "An urgent need to improve police-community relations, particularly with the black community" was cited this week by Max D. Blumenfeld, chairman of the Joint Commission on Civil Rights, as a reason for adding three voting members to the Borough's Police Committee.

Two of the additional members would be black. It has also been suggested that the third be a youth.

The question will be up for public discussion sometime in April, but Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week that he and Council hadn't yet decided whether to schedule the public discussion for next Tuesday's regular Council meeting, or for the April 20th meeting of the Police Committee.

Mr. Blumenfeld, in a statement this week, declared that the proposal to expand the Police Committee "was the result of much thought and discussion by members of the Civil Rights Commission."

He pointed out that the case of Richard Silvis, young black Princeton resident who has charged harassment by Borough police, has served to bring relations between the black community and the police "into sharp focus."

"Unless better communications leading to better relations are established," Mr. Blumenfeld continued, "the situation will only deteriorate further."

"We do not expect that the proposed change in the structure of the Police Committee will solve all the problems, but it is certainly a step in the right direction."

Among Councilmen, Robert Hendry has declared his opposition to the proposal, because he believes it changes the governance of the police department.

LEARN ABOUT TAXES

At Public Meeting. Five Princeton residents, including former Governor Richard J. Hughes, who served on the Tax Policy Commission for the state, will speak at a public meeting on the tax proposals to be held April 18.

The meeting, sponsored jointly by Township Committee and Borough Council, will be held in the auditorium of John Witherspoon school from 7:45 p.m. to 10 p.m. on Tuesday, April 18.

Other speakers from the Commission, besides Mr. Hughes, will be President Robert F. Goheen of Princeton University; Frank Reiche, Princeton lawyer and tax expert; William Miller, lawyer who served as counsel for the Commission, and John P. Lewis, of the Woodrow Wilson School.

Township Mayor John D. Wallace said Monday night that other members of the Commission had been invited and might attend also. The format of the meeting will be a brief presentation of the tax package, with most of the time devoted to questions from the audience.

A $50 maximum fine is the penalty for not registering. Mayor Robert W. Cawley said this week that the intent of the ordinance is to provide a census of rentals so that inspection of these units "will be on firmer ground."

"The new ordinance wasn't designed to uncover the illegal conversion of homes into apartments, he pointed out. Borough officials have never been able to estimate accurately how many home-owners are in violation of the zoning laws through illegal renting of rooms.

HOUSING MOVES ALONG

May Break Ground in June. Ground-breaking for Princeton Community Housing's 240 units of low and middle-income housing in the Township's heartland may take place early this summer.

That was the estimate given Monday night by Theodore Vial, PCH's chairman, to Township Committee. Within two weeks, Mr. Vial said, PCH expects cost agreements to be completed between the state's Housing Finance Agency and the PCH contractor.

The contractor most frequently named for the project is Herbert Kendall, who built Kendall Park and Twin Rivers; however, Mr. Vial and Alvin Gershon, PCH's consultant, said PCH so far hasn't limited its negotiations to a single contractor.

Quantities and unit costs must be spelled out in sharp detail, Mr. Gershon explained "to satisfy state auditors two or three years from now" when the project is in its final stages.

Schematic drawings for the apartments have been approved by the state down to the fine details of heating units, Mr. Gershon told Committee.

The Township's "J" Road — sometimes called Research Road — will be ordinance at Committee's next meeting, April 17. It will provide PCH with access to its land-locked site, and will also open up the Township's Office - Research zone to development.

"Completion of 'J' Road is very important to us," John Kuser, chairman of the committee charged with finding business firms for the OR zone, "what's good for PCH is good for us!"

STEREO, CAMERA TAKEN

From Humbert St. Home. James Speyer, 39 Humbert Street, reported to police Sunday the theft of a stereo system and camera from his home. He valued the articles at $370.

Mr. Speyer told Sgt. Robert Anderson that someone entered his home through an unlocked rear door or open window between 8:50 a.m. and 11:45 in the evening.

On Good Friday, while the Rev. Richard Toner was celebrating mass at Trinity Church, someone entered the minister's sacristy and stole a small black leather wallet and a credit card holder from his coat. There was no money in the card holder, police said. The theft took place between 12 noon and 3 p.m.

A sneak thief entered the home of Margaret Sullivan, 139 Laurel Road, some time between Thursday evening and Saturday afternoon and removed a pocketbook from the kitchen table. It was later recovered outside the home behind some shrubbery with the $6 it had contained removed.

A $45 tape deck was stolen from under the dashboard last week from a car parked in the drive at 146 Linden Lane. The thief broke a vent window to get inside, police said.

The owner, John S. Seeley, 17, of the same address, told police that he had parked the car in the drive at 1:45 a.m. The theft was discovered about two hours later when his father came home and noticed a large amount of glass on the ground near his son's car.

MAN IS ASSAULTED

By Money-Demanding Youth. Alan Susman, 39, 63 Leigh Avenue, was assaulted Saturday evening by a gang of youths demanding money as he was walking on Witherspoon Street across from Forer's Pharmacy.

Interviewed by Ptl. Kerry Klink at the Princeton Medical Center dispensary where he was being treated for lacerations, Mr. Susman told him that about seven or eight youths approached him and demanded money. When he told them he had none, they slapped him and knocked him to the ground.

Police said that the victim was unable to describe any of the assailants.

Two Charged with Assault. Flora Lee Oatis, 26, 184 Witherspoon Street, has been charged with assault and battery by Ptl. William Hunter for allegedly striking William Stewart with a baseball bat during a fight Saturday in a rooming house at the same address.

Unable to raise the $500 bail set by Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr., she was later released on her own recognizance. Stewart, after being examined by a physician, was brought to police headquarters "for his own protection," police said.

When Ptl. Hunter and Sgt. Robert Anderson answered the call at 184, they found a "helluva fight going on there," commented Chief Peter J. McCrohan.

Stephen Verish, a Princeton University proctor, has signed an assault complaint against Charles B. Worden, 23, of Cream Ridge.

Mr. Verish told Borough police that Worden slapped him Saturday evening during a concert in Alexander Hall on campus.

OPPORTUNITIES FOR ALL

In Being Creative. "Everyone Can Be Creative," a talk by Mrs. Eva Kaplan, will highlight the program of the Princeton Newcomers' meeting Thursday, April 13, at 12:30 at the YWCA.

Mrs. Eva Kaplan

Mrs. Kaplan is currently offering an experience in self-expression to children from three years old through kindergarten at the YWCA. She works by encouraging the children to illustrate their feelings in any art media, music, rhythm, painting, sculpture, dance or any way they choose.

Mrs. Kaplan holds a B. A. cum laude from Hunter College where she majored in art and a M. A. in Creative Arts from New York University. She has taught art in the secondary schools in New York City, at Gregory School, Trenton and at Antheil School, Ewing.

At present, Mrs. Kaplan is teaching the YWCA course, a class for kindergartners at the Jewish Community Center, and giving private lessons.

Anyone new in the Princeton area is invited to attend a Newcomers meeting.

"DINKY" TARGET AGAIN

Of Attempted Derailment. Someone was fooling around with the Penn-Central "Dinky" again on April 1.

Township Police Chief Frederick Porter reported that someone apparently tried to derail the Dinky Saturday morning by placing a two and one-half foot section of inner rail on the track. He added that police also have evidence that a derail switch, a safety device that is activated when the Dinky accidentally starts moving from the station, had been tampered with.

Chief Porter added that someone was observed running from the area of the Van Nostrand building, across from the attempted derailment spot, toward the University's Parking lot off Faculty Road.

According to Chief Porter, the Dinky left the station on University Place at 8:05 a.m. and on its return at 8:30, it struck the piece of rail about 250 south of the station. The engineer, R.D. Woodbury of Middlebush and the conductor, Sal Alfano of Trenton, in checking, discovered the rail had been placed on the track. One end had been damaged, the Chief said, "apparently when the Dinky ran over it."

The incident is being investigated by Sgt. Michael Kopliner and Ptl. David Wilbur. Penn Central police were notified as well, Chief Porter said.

Two weeks ago, the Dinky was derailed near Faculty Road from a spur track, causing damaged estimated at more than $30,000. Vandalism was suspected as the cause.

BURGLAR FLEES

From Woman's Shout. When Mrs. Jean Beckwith of 452 Stockton Street noticed a man walking around the rear of her house Friday morning and then heard the kitchen door knob move, she shouted at the suspect and he ran away.

Police report finding half-inch pry marks above the door knob. The attempted entry at 9:50 was investigated by Det. Samuel Bianco and Ptl. John Hammond of Township police.

A possible attempted entry at the Princeton Community

Phone Book offices, 152 Alexander Street, early last week was investigated by Sgt. David Polls.

An employee, Eva Meusel, told him when she arrived for work and put her key in the lock, the door would not open until she forced it. Inside, she saw a piece of the door frame on the floor.

Police said that it appears that someone tried to force open the door near the lock and was apparently frightened off. The entire interior was checked with negative results.

WOMAN IS CHARGED

With Shoplifting. An unemployed resident of Centerport, N.Y., Martha Disbrow, 19, was charged with shoplifting a $22 women's jacket Monday afternoon from Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center. Free on $35 bail, she was scheduled to appear in Township court this Wednesday.

According to Township police, Miss Constance Ware of the store's security department tried to apprehend the suspect in the store but she slipped out of her coat and ran out the store to a waiting car.

A description of the car was broadcast just as Det. Frank Bocciafuso was leaving Township headquarters. He saw the car drive by, followed it and apprehended Miss Disbrow and the driver on Alexander Street near Faculty Road. The driver was not charged.

THREE ARE CHARGED

With Drug Possession. Investigation by Borough police of an assault Thursday at 164 Witherspoon Street has led to three being charged with possession of a controlled dangerous substance — believed, police said, to be marijuana.

Ptl. James Agins and Ptl. Victor Fasanella answered a call at 9:15 from Mrs. Jean Bond, 164 Witherspoon Street. Upon their arrival, she told them that Leroy Tucker, 19, 164 Witherspoon, struck her in the face. After being treated at Princeton Medical Center for lacerations of the mouth and loosened teeth, she signed a complaint against Tucker charging him with assault and battery.

During the course of their investigation, Borough police made the possession of a dangerous substance charge against Tucker, Raymond Fisher, 26, 164 Witherspoon, and a 14-year-old juvenile. The juvenile was turned over to the Borough juvenile officer for processing.

FOR ILLEGAL DRIVING

30 Days Plus $210 Fine. John T. Reese of 199A Ewing Street was sentenced to 30 days in the Mercer County Workhouse and fined $210 for driving while on the revoked list. It was Mr. Reese's fourth such offense.

In another case, Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. fined George E. Barna, 17, 197 Dodds Lane, $35 and revoked his license for 10 days for speeding 60 miles and hour in a 30-mile zone. Also fined as speeders were Charles E. Peterson Jr., 38, Lawrenceville Road, $29, and Peter F. Lillenthal, 32, 29 Edwards Street, $15.

Paying fines of $15 each for obstructing passage of other cars were Elizabeth Fillo, 35, 107 Philip Drive, and Richard W. Westervelt, 62, 364 Stockton Street. Olivia S. Miller, 52, of Bank Street, paid $10 for jay walking on Nassau Street.

charter meeting of the New Jersey Corral of Westerners will be held Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Jim Bridger Room of Princeton University's Firestone Library. Jeff Dykes, noted Western book collector and author, will speak on "The History of Westerners."

"Anyone with a genuine interest in the American West is invited to attend," according to Alfred L. Bush, Curator of Western Americana in the University Library, who is hosting the session. Other corrals of the organization are located in most of the western states, in New York and London, according to Mr. Bush.

WOMEN NAMED

To Township Posts. Three women residents of Princeton Township were appointed Monday to positions on Township boards by Mayor John D. Wallace.

Mrs. Richard Cobb, 121 Braeburn Drive, and Mrs. Carl E. Brown, 28 Birch Avenue, were named to the expanded Traffic Safety Committee, and Mrs. Richard Thompson, 95 Random Road, was appointed to the Recreation Commission.

In another appointment, committee named P.M. Lyon, 91 Bertrand Drive, to the Joint Transportation Commission. Mr. Lyon will fill out the term of Edwin Hutter, who has resigned from the Commission and from the Shade Tree Commission, because he is moving to Cleveland.

Committee passed the ordinance prohibiting parking on both sides of Faculty Road from Alexander to Broadmead. The ordinance extending the sanitary sewer down Rosedale

Lane was also passed. The Board of Health and residents of the short lane have urged extension of the sewer.

Through an error, the municipal garbage contract was awarded last month at the 1971 figure. The new figure, $32,500, which is $3,000 higher, was accepted by Committee Monday night. Administrator Joseph R. Nini explained that he had inadvertently read the older bid.

The resolution on National Flood Insurance for Township residents was tabled for further study. A report will be made April 17.

SOUL AT McCARTER

With Curtis Mayfield. For the "Sickle Cell Cultural Festival" sponsored by the Association of Black Collegians at Princeton University, the featured performer will be soul singer Curtis Mayfield.

The Festival will be held at McCarter on Saturday, April 15, at 8 p.m., and tickets are now on sale at the box-office. Proceeds will benefit sickle cell research.

Mayfield, known as producer, arranger, songwriter and music executive, was leading singer and driving force behind "The Impressions," one of soul music's best-known groups. Two years ago, he left to form his own Chicago-based record company and to continue as solo performer.

A "contemporary preacher through music," Mayfield nevertheless sings songs of love, sensuality and everyday life, as well as "messages."

SIT ON THE STAGE

For Jazz Band. The Preservation Hall Jazz Band from New Orleans will play McCarter Theatre Friday, April 21, and the only seats remaining are on stage. There is standing-room for sale, too.

The band, headed by trumpeter DeDe Pierce and his wife Billie, on piano, is composed of musicians who actually created New Orleans jazz, blending marches, spirituals, ragtime and quadrilles into the jazz form.

Preservation Hall, where they used to play only for their own pleasure, is now packed each night with people who come to sit on the narrow benches, make their donations into a wicker basket at the door, and listen.

"BLUE GENES"

That's Triangle. The first Triangle Club show in five years with a real book and a story, will premiere in McCarter Theatre on Thursday, April 27, at 8:30 p.m.

It's "Blue Genes," a two-act musical comedy with the largest cast in the history of Triangle. "Blue Genes" will play again on Friday and Saturday at 8:30 p.m. and Saturday afternoon at 2:30. Tickets are now on sale at the McCarter box-office.

Milton Lyon, directing the show, explained the 70-member cast by saying that twice as many students auditioned this year as ever before, and they were so talented that he decided to cast as many people as the budget would allow.

Steve James, sophomore, will play the lead. He's also going to be in "The Sound of Music" earlier in April, and he was in last year's Triangle show, "Cracked Ice."

Joan Gallos, a newcomer to Triangle, will play the part of James' twin sister. She's president of the Tiger Lilies, the University's new all-girl singing group.

Phil Raskin, junior, who wrote "Blue Genes," will play the father of the twins. Raskin was Motel the tailor in "Fiddler on the Roof" last fall, and he was in "Cracked Ice" as well. Darcy Jannarone, another veteran of "Cracked Ice," will play the mother.

Bill Brown, who is president of Triangle, and Carey Davis, another Triangle performer, will also be featured. Both have been in Triangle shows since they were freshmen.

FILM, FROM GERMANY

By Fleischmann. "Hunting Scenes from Lower Bavaria," directed by Peter Fleischmann of Germany's new cinema, will be shown at McCarter next Tuesday, at 8 p.m. in the International Film Series.

Everyday fascism — particularly the persecution of those who differ from the norm — is the theme of the film. It depicts a young mechanic who is rumored to have served a jail sentence for a sexual offense. "Hunting Scenes" is laid in a small village, the kind of closed community where a defect becomes an evil and a mistake, a sin. The village is intended by Director Fleischmann to be symbolic of the world.

TWO ON A BILL

Sartre and Yerby. In Sartre's "No Exit," three characters finally realize that they are to be each other's tormentors in hell — a room with bricked-up windows, eternal lights and a barred door.

The short play is one of two on a double-bill to be presented next weekend by Princeton Community Players. The second offering is Yerby's "Save Me a Place at Forest Lawn," a dialogue between two elderly women.

The double bill will open Friday, April 14, at 8:30 p.m. in the Little Theatre of the Unitarian Church and a post-performance party is included in the price of the opening night ticket.

The plays will be given again that Saturday and on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 20, 21 and 22. Tickets are on sale at Marsh's Pharmacy, 30 Nassau and may be reserved by calling 921-3477.

Herbert McAneny, who made his first Players appearance in the Players' first production, "Cock Robin" in 1933, will play Cradeau in the Sartre play.

Rene Beaumont will be Estelle and Sara Afflerbach will be Inez. Mrs. Beaumont portrayed the title role in an original version of "Phaedra," soon to be seen on television, and she has appeared in several Intime productions. Miss Afflerbach, a newcomer to the Players, studied drama at the University of California, Santa Barbara.

Bea Washburne will be the Guide in "No Exit." Her husband, Norm Washburne, is directing.

BENEFIT FILM PLANNED

"Blue Water, White Death."

Princeton resident Stanton Waterman will be present during both performances of "Blue Water, White Death" on April 11 at the Playhouse to speak informally in an introduction for each show, discussing background technique in producing the film and providing an intimate observation on both the humor and tension and danger that accompanied the making of the movie. Also present will be Tom Chapin, whose voice and guitar provide the music for the feature film.

Along the way, they also obtained many fantastic sequences of other marine life, such as moray eels, giant turtles, harpacticus, and things not so natural, like a sunken aircraft carrier.
Their search began in Africa, and ended nearly two years later in South Australia. Their journey took them to Ceylon, Madagascar, the Seychelles, the Comoros, and the islands in the Mozambique channel. In Australia, they finally found the Great White Shark, the only truly "man eating shark". There they worked from aluminum cages, which the Sharks attacked, and attacked again breaking their teeth on the bars of the cage.
IS YOUR SCRIPT READY?
Contest Still Open. Original scripts from aspiring playwrights may still be submitted to Street Theatre for the contest whose prize is performance by the Theatre this summer, plus cash awards of $25-$50, provided by the Arts Council of Princeton.
Scripts may be any length or style, and on any subject. However, they will be performed outdoors by a mobile company, and technical directions should take these limitations into account.

Playwrights must submit manuscripts with an official entrance form, obtainable from Amie Brockway by calling 921-8588, or 452-9145. Forms are also available from Liz Hill, 924-9739 or 921-8588.
Street Theatre meets Sundays and Tuesdays from 7-10 p.m. in Christ Congregation Church on Walnut Lane and Houghton, and scripts may be taken to these meetings.
Winning authors will be notified in mid-May.

ADMISSION: FREE
To Censorship Comedy. Student actors in the Hamm & Clov Stage Company at Princeton Inn College Theatre have invited the community to a free play billed as "a comedy of censorship."
The play is David Mowat's "Purity," and it will be given in the theatre at Princeton Inn College next Friday, April 14, at 8:30 p.m. Admission is free.

THE BLACK PLAYWRIGHT
Ronald Milner to Speak. Ronald Milner, director of the Spirit of Shaengo Playhouse in Detroit, will speak on "The Black Playwright" this Thursday at 8 p.m. in the Princeton Youth Center.
Mr. Milner's talk, open to the public without charge, is the latest event in the Center's lecture series which is supported in part by the New Jersey Council of the Arts. This particular lecture is sponsored by the Princeton University Afro-American Studies Program and the Youth Center.
One of Mr. Milner's plays, "The Warning: A Theme for Linda," was given last month in the Center's repertory presentation of four plays. Mr. Milner is the author of "Who's Got His Own," which has been produced at the New Lafayette Theatre and the American Place Theatre. He edited an anthology of plays by black playwrights to be published shortly by New American Library.

"PAPER BAGS" COMING
For a Little "Group Soup." Hailed by the New York Times as the "best children's theatre in New York," The Paper Bag Players will return to McCarter Theatre for the fourth consecutive year on Saturday, May 6, for two performances of "Group Soup" at 11 and 2:30.
A company of artists devoted to the development of a totally original and creative theatre for children, the Paper Bag Players — or the "Bags" as they are often known — have evolved a unique revue format composed of song, stories, jokes, pantomime, dances and even poems. The material is created entirely by the members of the company themselves, and in place of typical sets and costumes, the "Bags" use easily obtainable everyday things — like paper bags, cardboard boxes, plastics and household objects.
Founded in 1958, the Paper Bags' repertoire includes seven hour-long shows. The company has been a regular visitor to McCarter since 1969, and there has never been an unsold seat for any performance. In addition to the public performances on May 6, the Paper Bags will also be in residence at McCarter on May 4 and 5, presenting four special student matinees for school groups throughout the state.

IT'S NEW To Us

"TOTAL ENVIRONMENT"
 By Interior Planners. Interior Planning Service has opened its doors at 11 Charlton Street in a quaint little house with an entrance on the diagonal. The partners are Bruce Herman, former design director for Maurice Villency, New York, and Judy Nelson, a talented caring person.

"I am concerned with environment as an art form," Bruce Herman told us last week. "Anyone can live in a beautiful environment if they are aware of all the alternatives available to them." He adds that knowing the alternatives means considerable savings in costs.

Interior Planning is interested in all types of interiors — homes, offices, commercial. But it has a special crusade, born probably from Mr. Herman's multiple interests in the arts. He is a sculptor, a playwright who has had two plays produced off-Broadway, a musician and is currently writing a book.

"I'm going after that particular market that has been afraid to consult a designer, because of fear of costs or fear that the designer will impose his tastes on the client," he says. "We are not 10 percent decorators. We don't come in and say that you have to paint a wall blue and throw out the piano... Ideally, what we try to do is instill confidence so that a client can make his own decisions."

"We are interested in people whose home doesn't reflect their life style. We can design a job from beginning to end, but we'd rather not do that with individuals. With a design, we suggest color, but not that the chair must be green and the wall must be white. We offer alternatives on the basis of what is on the market."

Mr. Herman believes in the wide application of alternatives, which not only control costs but even more important, bring in the client's sense of comfort and joy in her surroundings.

Interior Planning is interested in total environment, and offers a complete design service at fees that are very moderate. You can work up to your "total environment" at home piece by piece, based on an over-all design that you have worked out with the firm. There is great flexibility in these designs, yet they maintain the theme.

Interior Planning Service is affiliated with architects, graphics artists and others. Bruce Herman told us, "I think that Princeton needs this kind of service and that as people get to know us, they are going to like us."

Mr. Herman is yet another careerist who has chucked the city and the pressures of city life. "When I was 23, I was earning $60,000 a year, so I have had my shot at the big money." He believes that a way of life is more important and is somewhat of a crusader on this point.

"So many people have the idea that gracious living is a lot of money. But they can live well on a little money with imagination, creativity. Most people don't realize the alternatives open to them. This is what I am trying to do — make people really design conscious."

He and Judy Nelson work in a very direct and open way, learning about how you feel about your home environment, and passing along to you ideas and suggestions that, in our opinion, are quite exciting, opening new worlds.

For an appointment with Interior Planning Service, in the simple and cheery headquarters at 11 Charlton Street, the number is 924-9461, and hours of 10 to five are stretchable to evenings and weekends.

NOW IS THE TIME

To Think Green. Obal Garden Market on lower Alexander Street is beginning to hum with gardeners in search of greenery. The crocuses are up and the rhododendrons are coming in.

Obal will have many varieties of roses this year — probably best selection in years. Among the newer ones is Fragrant Cloud, a dark red that will scent your garden.

There are all kinds of things for rock gardens, including juniper, cypress and flat-growing plants. Some are ready to plant; some are due as spring advances.

Obal has a good selection of Exbury azaleas. These are the deciduous type that burst into exotic bloom before the foliage.

The selection includes a very good yellow.

Among the rarer plants, you will find weeping hemlock and weeping white pines. If you like the Japanese effect, Obal has the "tortured" juniper, a painter's delight.

New Plants. There's a new holly this year that is very hardy: Ragosa Blue Boy and Blue Girl. It's the shrub type. And one of the newer shade trees is the beautiful maple, October Glory, a deep-rooted tree that holds its brilliant red fall color until almost Thanksgiving Day. The tree was developed here by Mr. Flemmer at Princeton Nurseries.

If you want blooms this spring, now is the time to plant crabapple, cherry and dogwood, the Obals remind us. And among the shrubs: forsythia, flowering almond and spirea will reward you this year. Also the very fragrant mock orange, a shrub for a shady spot.

The famous Jan de Graaf hybrid lilies are available at Obal. Plant for June, July and August blooms. The clematis fines are in, and more are ties have larger flowers, more double blossoms.

Taking up the matter of containers, we found Obal has everything from huge, shallow bowls of cement to small terrariums shaped like round ball in clear plastic. Use the huge bowls for a garden fountain, perhaps, or try growing an exotic plant or cactus in the terrariums.

There are pottery containers in all shapes and sizes. Some are like urns; others have flower pot shapes, and still others are long slim boxes. You could plant your favorite rose tree, or flank your entrance-way in a classic style.

Obal Garden Market likes to grow rhododendron and azaleas. Among them is the PJM Rhododendron whose leaf holds its color in winter. The flower is lavender.

In fact, we pass along to you the results of a January scouting trip at Obal, when we were curious to see what was attractive in the dead of winter: Among the junipers: Skyrocket, a silvery green, and low-growing Tamark; The three-spine Barbary turns a deep red; the hollies were all a rich, shining green, including Ilex Bulatta, or Japanese holly.

The pioneer spirit is not merely alive; it thrives, in the spirited early American creations and re-creations at Cane Farm.

How did you get the most warmth from a walk in fireplace? You cuddled right up to it in a settle, that's how. The high back kept the heat from getting past you, so you got the most good from the least fuel. The original of this settle (late 1600's) is in the Metropolitan Museum. You can fill a foyer wall with our re-creation. It's 51" wide, 64 1/2" high.

MUSIC In Princeton

FIFTH PROGRAM PLANNED
In Trinity-All Saints Series. Music by the British composer, Malcolm Williamson, will be featured in the season's fifth program in the Trinity-All Saints' Concerts and Musical Services series this Saturday, at 8 p.m. in Trinity Church.

Featured on the program will be the one act opera, "The Happy Prince" performed by students, faculty members and staff from Westminster Choir College, and members of the Trinity Girls' Choir.

Other works on the "Evening of Music by Malcolm Williamson" program will be two "Peace Pieces" for organ played by the composer, a three movement piano sonata played by William Cheadle and a solo cantata, "Celebration of Divine Love" to be sung by Lois Laverty, soprano with David Agler, pianist. The opera, based on a children's story by Oscar Wilde, will be stage directed by Malcolm Williamson and conducted by David Agler.

There will be no admission charge for the Princeton performance.

News Of The Theatres

year-old soufflé about the Twenties musicals.

Directed by Ken Russell, it concerns an English seaside resort repertory company performing "The Boy Friend" sometime in the Thirties, and shows backstage happenings and the chaos that arrives when a world-famous movie director visits a matinee performance.

Twiggy turns out to be a delightful surprise. She is cast as the timid assistant stage manager who always forgets to tell the actors they have five minutes to curtain. She is suddenly informed that she will be going on stage for the disabled star.

The cameo role of the year is played by Glenda Jackson, as the star who caught her high heel in a transom. Her advice to Twiggy, who will replace her, is very funny.

Twiggy has a flair for comedy; she dances gracefully and sings the songs wistfully. Over and around her there is much action, as members of the company try to catch the attention of the visiting film director. The movie imitates the Bus Berkeley dance routines, and all that is missing are the wisecracks of Joan Blondell.

PRINCE

The Last Picture Show (now playing) is one of the finest American films of recent years. The director is film historian Peter Bogdanovich, the first of the youthful film nuts to make it big.

The time is the early Fifties and the story unrolls against the background of a small, windswept town in Texas. For the young, it's a matter of growing up and escaping, usually to Wichita Falls. It is either that or grow old in a town that's dying right in front of you.

Two youths, Sonny and Duane (played by Timothy Bottoms and Jeff Bridges) want to leave for good. Sonny inherits the town's pool hall and works the oil rig out in the flatlands. Duane, jilted by the town's prettiest girl, escapes via a hitch in the army. The music of the Fifties pours out of jukeboxes, car radios and phonographs.

The cast gives some remarkable performances, including Cloris Leachman as the lonely housewife, Ellen Burstyn who takes the infidelities route, and Ben Johnson, as Sam the Lion, the aging Texan who runs the pool hall, cafe and movie house, who doesn't like any of the changes he sees. The last show in his aging theatre is Howard Hawks' "Red River," about the West at its most glorious.

The film suggests the passing of a whole way of life. Directed with precision and compassion, it also pays tribute to Bogdanovich's director-heroes: the Damon-Pythias relationship between the two youths is very much in the Howard Hawks genre; the pictorial sense is taken from John Ford, with a deep bow to Orson Welles, and the closing credits are very Welles. The film is in black and white, historically appropriate for pre-Cinema-scope times.

breathing difficulty shortly after birth in Princeton Medical Center.

Born at 12:19 p.m. Saturday and weighing four pounds, 12 ounces, the unnamed child was flown from Princeton Airport by a New York Coast Guard helicopter at 10:28 p.m. and taken to the Wall Street Heliport in lower Manhattan, where an Empire State ambulance rushed her to the hospital on East 68th Street.

The trip took less than an hour and the child was receiving treatment less than two hours after Princeton doctors requested aid. The child is progressing satisfactorily, according to a spokesman at the Cornell Medical Center. She has been taking formula by mouth and is breathing without difficulty.

Mrs. Joan Crespi is in satisfactory condition at the Princeton Medical Center. Mr. Crespi is vice-president of Public Opinion Surveys, Inc., of 2 Chambers Street.

CAR BUMPS STUDENT

At Nassau and Witherspoon. A 14-year old student at St. Joseph's College, Lake Road, was struck by a car last week as he was crossing Witherspoon Street at Nassau.

PLANS BLOSSOMING FOR GARDEN PARTY: Pictured at a planning breakfast for the fifth annual Spring Benefit for the Stuart Country Day School are Mrs. Dudley A. Eppel and Mrs. Nicholas Bayard, co-chairmen, and Mrs. John T. Henderson, Jr., in charge of publicity. A feature of this year's Garden Party on May 20 will be an exhibition of the paintings of Nelson Shanks, a New Hope resident. A number of portraits of Princetonians will be displayed. Gov. and Mrs. William T. Cahill and President and Mrs. Robert F. Goheen are honorary chairmen of the event.

Mark Wyatt, a resident of Grovesport, Ohio, complained of a pain in his thigh but refused medical treatment. Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm made no charges against the driver, Floyd J. Campbell, 48, 105 Leigh Avenue, who was attempting to turn into Witherspoon Street.

Mishap on 206. A disabled car triggered an accident on Route 206 near Nini Motors, last Tuesday evening just a few minutes before midnight.

Charles R. Howell, 21, of Gloucester told police that he was going around a curve when another car came at him with its high beam on. He swerved to the right and struck a guard rail. A second car, operated by Dennis Furman of Hillsborough, stopped behind the Howell car to render aid.

As the two were putting up a warning flare, another car came around the curve and skidded into them. Police identified the second driver as Alex B. Delbueno, 66, of Somerville. He suffered a nose bleed from the excitement.

Mr. Furman received a leg injury; Mr. Howell refused medical attention. The former told police as the other car came around the curve, he yelled "jump!" but it hit him before he could get out of the way.

Mr. Delbueno reported that the area was dark and there were no lights. "I put on my brakes but couldn't stop in time," he told Sgt. William Potts, who made no charges.

SEWER STUDY SET

Authority Gives OK. What will be the effect on the environment of the proposed six-municipality regional sewer? A study to determine the various effects will be undertaken by Metcalf and Eddy, the engineering firm that will do the eventual design of the regional sewer itself.

At last week's meeting of the Stony Brook Regional Sewer Authority, members of the Authority and Ian Walker, executive director of the Stony Brook-Millstone Watersheds Association, approved an outline of what the study might cover:

1. The overall impact of the sewer, including its effect on groundwater supply and the way construction of the lines would affect future land use and the appearance of Stony Brook.

2. How elimination of health hazards will affect communities that can tie into a sewer for the first time.

3. A comparison between tunnel and open-cut construction.

4. The effect of discharging effluent into Lake Carnegie. Eventually, the regional sewer plant will be able to de-nitrify effluent, but this won't be possible right away.

5. The impact on the system when neighboring towns that aren't part of the six-town Authority now, become customers of the Authority and begin to tie into its lines.

6. Comparison of alternatives — one or three plants?

According to Ariel Thomas of Metcalf and Eddy, the study could cost between $10,000 and

Tie Up Your Branches: It's Clean-Up Week

Borough and Township will celebrate Clean-up Week together, starting next Monday, April 10, and continuing through Friday.

Both municipalities ask that twigs and branches be tied with twine or string (not wire) and left at curbside. The Borough is more specific: no bundle should be longer than three feet nor larger in diameter than three feet.

BOBOUGH: Trash collections will be made at the curb on regular garbage collection days. Large pieces, like elderly washing-machines, should be no more than one man can lift alone — about 50 pounds.

Leaves, grass clippings and small items should be placed in a container, or in plastic bags.

TOWNSHIP: The same rule about heavy items — no more than one man can lift alone — applies. Trash collections will be made throughout the week, but there is no regular collection schedule.

Starting Monday, April 17 — after Clean-up Week is over — the Township will get out the leaf-vacuum again and start to collect raked leaves from curbside. The leaf-vacuum machine will not be out during Clean-Up Week.

$100,000. It is estimated that the study will delay groundbreaking past the November date hoped for by the Authority.

Conservationists have been pressing for such a study for many months, urging its completion before the sewer is built.

INNOVATION CAN WIN

In Lambert Awards, Entries are now being accepted and evaluated for the second annual Gerard B. Lambert Awards, established last year by Mrs. Grace Lambert of Province Line Road, as a memorial to her husband.

Mr. Lambert's family founded the Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, and he himself was actively involved in health services and in the encouragement of innovations in business, industry and public housing.

Ten awards totaling $5,000, were given in 1971 to those who had devised and implemented various projects for lowering hospital costs and improving patient care. The deadline for 1972 entries is May 31, and the awards will be handed out in September.

Last year's first award went to a Washington, D.C. hospital specialist who devised ten ways for improving the utilization of hospital personnel, and the distribution of supplies and equipment.

Using these concepts, one hospital reduced its nursing staff requirements by 14% and so reduced nurse "walking time" that nurses were able to spend over 100% more time in patients' rooms.

Million Dollar Saving. The second prize went to the administrator of a Providence, R. I., hospital who established a new accounting system allowing for direct negotiations with Blue Cross. It was the first hospital in the country to use such direct contact, and the institution has thereby saved $1 million in its operating budget.

Third prize was awarded to a San Diego hospital official whose improved management techniques resulted in rate reductions for patients twice in a period of 14 months, and a profit the first year the plans were in effect.

There are no application forms for the Lambert Awards. Entrants are asked only one question: "What are you doing different, that should come to the attention of the Awards Committee?"

All entries (600 of them last year) are read by a team called Research Analysts, who sift them and pass on the most promising to a Panel of Jurors. (Last year, 66 were brought to the attention of this panel.) The ten award-winning ideas are then selected from this group.

Headquarters for the Gerard B. Lambert Awards is 53 Bank Street, which is the office of The Gallup Organization. Members of the Sponsoring Committee, besides Mrs. Lambert, are Gerard B. Lambert III, J. Richardson Dilworth, and Dr. George Gallup. Additional jurors are Robert Sappenfield and C. William Wolfe.

RUMMAGE DATES SET

To Benefit Medical Center. Members of the Medical Center Aid Committee will hold their annual spring rummage sale on May 1, 2 and 3 at the Italian-American Sportsmen's Club, 451 Terhune Road.

Mrs. Joseph N. Grazel and Mrs. Marshall Sittig, co chairmen, emphasize that off street parking will be available in a lot adjoining the club. Items will be received on Monday, May 1, between 9 and 5. Arrangements for pick-up of heavy items may be made in advance by calling Mrs. Robert Mellinger at 924-0272.

Selling will be conducted on Tuesday and Wednesday, May 2 and 3, between 9:30 and 5.

All proceeds will be donated to the Medical Center.

BLACK SEXUAL MYSTIQUE

Topic of Lecture Here. Dr. Alvin F. Poussaint, associate professor of psychiatry and as sociate dean of students at Harvard Medical School, will deliver a public lecture about the black sexual mystique on Monday at 8:15 p.m. at Educational Testing Service's Conference Center. He will discuss the myths, available facts, and research about black sexual behavior, and will explore the role that racism has played in the black sexual mystique.

Dr. Poussaint is regarded by many in the black community as an able interpreter of black strategies for the 70's. His articles on racism, education and crime in the black community have appeared in the New York Times Sunday Magazine, Ebony and numerous other journals.

Dr. Poussaint served as the southern field director of the Medical Committee for Human Rights in Jackson, Mississippi, and is currently treasurer of the Black Academy of Arts and Letters. Before joining the Harvard faculty, he taught psychiatry at the Tufts University Medical School.

He is the last of six educators who have been named ETS Distinguished Visiting Scholars for the 1971-72 academic year and who are invited to spend a week taking part in discussions and seminars with the organization's staff at its headquarters here.

OPENINGS REMAIN

In YWCA Spring Classes. This spring adult classes at the YWCA cover 45 subjects. Late registrations are still being accepted for most of them until the end of the week.

A few extra classes have been added because of heavy demand, such as an evening class on Thursday at 7:30 in painting with acrylics, taught by Helen Schwartz, Mrs. Schwartz, who is TOWN TOPICS art critic, has had her work exhibited many times in the area.

Other classes of special interest are English as a second language for beginners, intermediate and more advanced students, courses that are aimed at the many visitors to the Princeton community who wish to polish their English while staying here. Several more classes have openings, and those interested should call the YWCA at 924-4825 for information.

Some of the classes for children and teens still have a few openings, among them, canoeing for junior and senior highs. In two four-week sessions young people are taught to canoe, ending their course with a Saturday trip. Also scheduled are two Mother-Daughter canoe trips.

The new athletic center offers a variety of classes; here, too, late registrations are accepted all through the week.

THE EASTER BUNNY got a helping hand filling baskets last week when E. R. Squibb & Sons, Inc. employees in Lowrence Township, New Brunswick and East Brunswick raised $1,038 for a special children's fund. Selected to receive the Squibb donation is the Child Guidance Center of Mercer County. On hand to visit the children and deliver the check to Domenick Colangelo, administrator of the Center, is Carol Turck of Cranbury, one of the contributing Squibb employees. The Squibb gift represents monies donated by the employees and matched by the company. Squibb moved into its new Worldwide Headquarters in Lowrence Township last November.

Some classes that still have openings are coed archery on Friday nights and a women's and girl's tap dance class Wednesday afternoon, as well as the Volleyball and Fun and Fitness Clubs, given at various times.

The Athletic Center makes formerly seasonal sports available year 'round. A number of recreational times are scheduled, and the YW hopes that teams will be formed or that people will drop in and join in games of volleyball, basketball, and other team sports. The Body Exercise Room and the YWCA Sauna are open throughout the day.

RUMMAGE PLANNED

By Lions Auxiliary. The Ladies Auxiliary of the Princeton Lions Club will hold a spring rummage sale Friday, April 21, from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., at St. Andrews Church on Chambers Street.

Used clothing for the sale may be left at the side entrance of the church on Thursday, April 20, after 1 p.m. All proceeds will go toward the Auxiliary's annual scholarship given to a Princeton area resident studying in some branch of medicine.

Film Censors Not Needed

To the Editor of Town Topics:

I think we all agree that some of the recent movies go beyond the limits of good taste, but usually even a quick reading of the movie reviews should be adequate for any concerned parents to make a judgment on whether their child should or should not see it, without the interpretation of self-appointed moralists.

This is especially true since these same censors put their stamp of approval on Cowboy and War films, steeped in violence and gore. The whole idea of determining what others can read, see, or listen to, is totally against the American tradition.

Democracy is based upon individual responsibility; something children will never learn if all their decisions are made for them by self-righteous and ill-qualified arbiters.

Return of ROTC Opposed

To the Editor of Town Topics:

The following letter has been sent to President Goheen:

The Peace Committee of the Princeton Friends Meeting is dismayed by the re-instatement of ROTC at Princeton University.

We live in a time when militarism pervades our society at all levels: from the Pentagon's atomic arsenal, through the atrocities Americans continue to commit in Indochina, down to the violent actions and attitudes of many police, protesters and other private citizens. Now is the time when this university should resist pressure to contribute to the militarization of our society.

As residents of this community and as Quakers concerned about peace, we urge you and the faculty and trustees to re-examine your decision to allow ROTC on this campus.

MARGOT HUBER-HAYNES

226-C Halsey Street

New $500,000 Road Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

We are told that Princeton is to have a "J" road or "Research Road" that is to "head off from Terhune and North Harrison" into the woods where Princeton Community Housing will be built. (Town Topics, Mar. 30, p.4); this road will then continue parallel to the Mt. Lucas Road.

"One of the largest road projects we've ever undertaken," is to be almost a mile long and will cost $500,000. It "will open up the Office Research zone to make it more attractive for new business firms."

Do we citizens want new business firms with their traffic, housing and additional population problems? The belief in business firms as good "rateables" had often been questioned, as new business brings so many hidden expenses with it; but as the whole tax structure of New Jersey may be changed soon, and since our main municipal tax burden, schools, is to undergo a definite shift, why are we going ahead and spending money on a "J" road? Other than the sale of real estate, what reason is there to develop that Office and Research zone?

Furthermore, has an ecological study been made of that diabase (trap rock) ridge where the "J" road is to go? Have we checked to see whether development of roads and buildings on that rock ridge will erode the hillside and flood those below?

Perhaps the rock ridge should be left as parkland. Those woods absorb sound and give us shade in summer that helps cool the breeze. Green leaves take in carbon dioxide and give off oxygen to give us fresh air.

Roads, parking lots, and buildings will give us the reverse of this. The products will be heat and pollution. There seems to be countless reasons for saving the woods for the advantage of Princetonians in general, but who is benefitted by a mile of "J" road?

ELIZABETH MENZIES

926 Kingston Road

Gerrymandering Opposed.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Reapportionment decisions often bring out the worst in politicians, but the Maraziti gerrymander approaches a new low. Although strictly conforming to court guidelines on population equality, the plan clearly violates three basic principles of representative democracy.

First, the districts are not compact and ignore the boundaries of natural communities, Princeton, for example, is placed in a district that looks like a leprechaun shaking hands with a terrier.

The district has no relationship to other political divisions. Our Freeholder district runs to the south and west, our Assembly and State Senatorial districts to the north, and this Congressional district to the east.

Second, the districts are tailored to meet the demands of incumbents and insiders for "safe seats." Senators Maraziti and Schluter have carved out a district that is safe for one of them for a decade to come.

Congressmen Thompson and Frelinghuysen have been given districts that are so stacked in favor of one party as to make a mockery of the electoral process. Kosygin is as likely to be defeated in his district.

Third, even if there were a chance to unseat Congressmen Frelinghuysen and Thompson, the timing of the legislation makes it almost impossible for either party to make the necessary plans.

The last-minute nature of these decisions guarantees that they will be made by insiders rather than the rank-and-file. Maraziti and Schluter have been able to plan campaigns for the new seat. Who else has?

The New Jersey Legislature is not famous for its commitment to good government. The reapportionment decisions of the last three years make it plain that some alternative to reapportionment by a legislature must be found.

ANTIQUES SHOW SET

For May 6 and 7. The third annual indoor Antiques Show and Sale will be held May 6 and 7 in the galleries of the YMCA on Avalon Place. Named chairmen of the 20-member operating committee are Mr. and Mrs. James Carey, 245 Library Place.

"Collectors from eastern states, including New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, will show and sell fine antiques," Mr. Carey said. "Among the 40 exhibits there will be Early American, English, 18th Century and French furnitures, glassware, tools, rare fine porcelains, pewters, scrimshaw, prints, jewelry, silver, clocks, pottery, Victorian accessories, fine primitives, tin ware, early toys, quilts, Staffordshire, heirloom dolls, oil paintings, bronzes and hundreds of other collectors' items.

"For example, one dealer will show outstanding Chinese antiques, including an extremely rare peachbloss vase," he pointed out.

"This promises to be one of the most complete antique assemblies ever held in this area. We anticipate that thousands of devotees will travel hundreds of miles, find among the collections items to their liking, and thus contribute to the Y's youth scholarship fund," Mr. Carey noted.

On opening day, Saturday,

SCHOOL SALE SET

By West Windsor Board. A minimum price of $150,000 has been placed on the Penns Neck School property being offered for sale by the West Windsor-Plainsboro Regional School Board. Bids may be mailed or delivered but must reach the Board by 8 p.m., Tuesday, April 18, at the Maurice Hawk School, at which time they will be considered.

At the Board's regular monthly meeting last week, Walter Golden, Clerk of the Works, reported that although rain during March hindered construction, activity has increased considerably with the change in the weather. All major contractors are now engaged in the construction of the secondary school and the first major delivery of structural steel is scheduled for nearly May.

W. Mark Horvath, board secretary, reported that progress is being made in the development of a district transportation map for the computerization of school bus routes. He advised the board that applications for non-public school transportation for the 1972-73 school year will be mailed to parents this week. Completed applications must be returned to the Board Secretary's office by May 1.

In an effort to obtain the lowest possible prices, Mr. Horvath said the West Windsor-Plainsboro Schools were bidding jointly with the Princeton Regional Schools for the purchase of paper, milk, ice cream and bread for next year.

Last week's meeting was the deadline for submission to the Board of plans to remove the Coward House from the secondary school site. Since no plans were received, the Board will proceed with its original plan to turn the building over to the Princeton Junction Volunteer Fire Department for fire drills prior to demolishing the building by fire.

Dr. Hadden indicated he had received a request from the New Jersey Historical Sites Commission to make scale drawings of the building and to remove any pieces it could use in restoration of historical sites prior to the Board's turning the building over to the fire company. Since members of the community had also requested various articles, he said the Commission would be granted first choice of anything in the house.

SCHOOL PLANS LECTURES

To Honor Stephen Crane. Seeking to honor one of its most famous alumni, Stephen Crane (1871-1900), The Pennington School has announced the establishment of "The Stephen Crane Lectures." The lectures will be held in Shaw Memorial Chapel on the evenings of April 10, 17 and 24 at 7:30.

Not only were Stephen Crane and his sister Elizabeth L. Crane students at the School, but their father, the Reverend Jonathan Townley Crane, D.D., was the headmaster of the School from 1849-58 then known as Pennington Male Seminary and Female Collegiate Institute. Stephen Crane attended Pennington from 1885-87, but did not graduate from the School.

Stephen Crane is best known for his novel on the Civil War, "The Red Badge of Courage," 1895, and his short story, "The Open Boat," 1898. He got his start in journalism working for the "New York Tribune," in the 1890's. The day editor of the Tribune at that time was Willis Fletcher Johnson, a graduate of Pennington and one-time president of the School's Alumni Association.

Two Princeton University professors and an administrator from Glassboro State College will be the featured speakers for this first series.

Dr. Frank Henry Bretz, provost of Glassboro State College, Glassboro, will speak on the topic "Your World and Mine" on April 10. Dr. Marion J. Levy, Jr., professor of sociology and international affairs at Princeton University will lecture on "How Queer You Are Said Alice" on April 17.

Dr. Carlos Head Baker, the Woodrow Wilson Professor of Literature at Princeton University, will speak on "Hemingway's Empirical Imagination" on April 24.

The Shaw Memorial Chapel is located on the second floor of O'Hanlon Hall on the Pennington campus. There will be no charge for admission, but the Chapel only has a seating capacity of 350.

WALLACE SUPPORTED

By One in 10 Jersey Residents. More than one in ten New Jersey residents are "very likely" to vote for George Wallace were he to run again for the Presidency as an independent candidate, according to the Second New Jersey Poll conducted by the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University.

Of the 1221 New Jerseyans over 18 who were interviewed between February 18 and 28, 11% reported that they were "very likely" to vote for the Alabama Governor, 12% were "somewhat likely" to vote for him, while 70% said that they would be "not at all likely" to vote for Wallace. The remaining 7% had no opinion.

A profile of the Wallace supporter can be drawn from the Poll data. Those who support him are more likely to be male—Wallace draws 60% of his support from men, although men comprise less than half of New Jersey's population.

A majority of those favoring the Alabamian identify themselves as Democrats, while a quarter are Republicans and the rest Independents.

Liberals Like Wallace? The Wallace sympathizer is somewhat more likely to style himself a conservative—47% of Wallace supporters compared to 44% of all respondents to the Poll. Interestingly however, 30% of those favorable to Wallace call themselves liberal compared to 36% of the whole New Jersey electorate.

Voters with less than a high school education make up the majority of the Alabama Governor's support in New Jersey—56% of his supporters as compared to 41% of the state electorate whose education stopped at this level.

A Wallace supporter is more likely to hold a blue collar job—66% as compared to 49% of all respondents—and have an above average, but not a high income.

Those earning between $10,000 and $15,000 a year make up 41% of his support although this income group comprises only 28% of the state's citizens. High income respondents—those making over $15,000 a year—make up 25% of the New Jersey electorate, but only 13% of Wallace supporters.

Active Politically. The Alabamian's admirers are more active politically than New Jersey citizens as a whole. A full three-quarters of them report having voted last November as compared to two-thirds of the general electorate.

President Nixon is viewed somewhat less favorably by the Wallace sympathizers than by New Jerseyans in general. While 51% of New Jersey citizens gave the President a positive rating, only 46% of Wallace supporters did.

Thus, the picture of the potential Wallace voter in New Jersey that emerges is of a male, blue collar workers with less than a high school education but with above average income. He considers himself a Democrat, is somewhat conservative and quite likely to vote.

PHYSICS, LAW TOPICS

Of Two University Talks. David Rose, M.I.T. physicist, will deliver the third of this year's Louis Clark Vanuxem Lectures on "Our Expanding Energy Resources" at Princeton University's 10 McCosh Hall this Friday at 8:30 p.m. The talk is the third in a four-part series entitled "Our Expanding Natural Resources."

Professor Rose, 50, a native of Canada and a graduate of the University of British Columbia, received his Ph.D. in Physics from M.I.T. and was Director of Long-Range Planning at Oak Ridge National Laboratory, Tenn., from 1969 to 1971.

"Criminal Law, Privacy and Constitutional Rights" will be the topic of a public lecture by Mr. Justice Brian Walsh, Justice in the Republic of Ireland's Supreme Court. The talk, which will be given this Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. at 50 McCosh Hall on the Princeton University Campus, is sponsored by the University's Walter E. Edge Lecture Fund.

The Edge Lectureship in Public and International Affairs was founded in 1957 by the family of the former N. J. Governor, U. S. Senator and Ambassador to France.

DISCUSSION SERIES SET

On Family Life. The Family Service Agency of Princeton and the Young Women's Christian Association are sponsoring another series of discussions on family life. This series will focus on the problems and situations that the single woman with children may have to face.

This discussion group, like the two previous ones, will be led by experienced social workers from the Family Service Agency.

It was found that the parents who participated in the previous meetings were stimulated by the open discussions that allowed them to verbalize their concerns and to become aware of the universality of some situations. The objective of the next discussion group is to enable single mothers to identify and share their common problems and mutual experiences and to consider a number of ways of coping with them.

It is believed that, as the members of the previous groups did, the participants will find constructive problem-solving patterns that will help them handle specific situations they may face. The open discussions will also make some single mothers aware of potential problems that may arise, and therefore help them prevent certain situations from developing.

The staff members initiate and organize the discussions, and, when appropriate, help the members with suggestions or recommendations for further help. This approach therefore requires active participation on the part of the group members.

The discussion group is planned to run for six consecutive weeks and is scheduled to start April 13. It will meet weekly on Thursdays from 8:15 to 9:45 p.m., and will be held at the YWCA. A fee of $6 is being charged for the six sessions. Registration is at the YWCA and is for the entire six weeks.

PUBLIC FORUM SET

On Angela Davis Trial. A public forum on "The Law as an Instrument of Repression: The Trial of Angela Davis," will be held on the Princeton University campus on Monday at 8 p.m. in 50 McCosh Hall.

The main speaker at the forum — which is co-sponsored by the Princeton Faculty-Student Ad Hoc Committee for Peace and Human Rights, and the University's Third World Cultural Center — will be Dr. Herbert Aptheker, Professor of Afro-American Studies at Bryn Mawr College.

In his presentation, Professor Aptheker will deal with the facts and latest developments surrounding the trial of Angela Davis, review the events leading up to the trial and will explore the reasons for the trial. A question and answer session will follow his presentation.

In addition to his teaching duties at Bryn Mawr, Prof. Aptheker is also Director of the American Institute for Marxist Studies in New York City, as well as custodian of the papers of the late Dr. W.E.B. Dubois. He is the author of more than 20 books in the fields of American foreign policy, black history and philosophy.

ART EXHIBIT SET

By Two Princeton Natives. A showing of acrylic paintings by Elizabeth Wadleigh Leary and water colors by Jenny Staskewich opens this Friday evening at Gallery 100, Nassau Street, with a reception from 6 to 8 p.m. Both women are Princeton natives.

Mrs. Leary was invited to participate in the Brandywine Tradition Exhibition at the Monmouth County Museum, Red Bank, and has also shown

Curriculum Changes to Increase Choice in PHS Course Selections

Students at Princeton High next year will have a choice of 20 new courses that have been added to the curriculum. In the interests of keeping course offerings up to date, 14 other courses have been revised, and 16 have been dropped.

This spring, seniors may take mini-courses for the seven last weeks of the semester, just as they did last year. Minis start April 12 and continue until May 24, filling in that gap when graduation is just ahead and motivation may be at a low ebb.

For the regular curriculum, each department in the high school made a critical review of its offerings, and instituted changes in almost every area. "Selected Topics in Higher Mathematics" will be offered for students who have completed the first two years of math and would like another alternative for additional study.

Options Outlined. In the Business Education department, students who need business skills but do not necessarily plan a business career, may take "Typing for Term Papers" and "Intermediate Typing." This department will also offer "Introduction to Vocations" for the student who wants to know what his business options are.

The entire art department curriculum has been changed. Five new courses have been added, and six have been revised. For the first time, there is an emphasis on individual courses, rather than courses that move in a sequence. This gives students a broader selection to choose from.

Freshmen who enter the high school with Middle School Latin, may take a new course called "Latin for Ninth Graders," instead of an advanced version of Latin I.

New and revised history courses include "Modern European History" and "Advanced Placement U. S. History II." In addition, the social science department now has courses in economics, anthropology, psychology and geography.

Home Economics has added "Child-care Careers" and "Interior Decoration" to its list of course offerings, and Industrial Education will have "Electronics and the Communication Media," plus an expansion of the graphic arts department.

Mini. The list of mini-courses has 35 different offerings. Seniors may elect two, if they have permission from the teacher whose regular class they will be missing. Minis are given only on Wednesday mornings.

"Medical Science" will be given at the Princeton Medical Center. It's designed to introduce students to the variety of careers open in medical fields.

Another career-oriented mini is "Hotel and Food Service Management," to be taught by Thomas P. Root, who directs food services at the University. "Commercial Art" will be taught by Arnold Roth, artist who is resident of Princeton, and various guest artists who will show how to do it, and how to sell it.

"Kurt Vonnegut and his Fantasy Worlds" will survey Vonnegut's best works. Students will discuss, from a literary and philosophical point of view, the ideas Vonnegut raises in his fiction.

Dr. Roger Wertheimer, husband of Dr. Patricia Wertheimer, principal of the high school, will lead a course in "Philosophy," discussing with students whatever moral or political problems the students select, showing how to think about such problems in a rigorous manner.

"Mathematical Oddities" will explore useful and fascinating concepts that are outside the usual math curriculum. These include Moebius bands, curves without length, inside and outside and knots and links. "Human Sexuality and the Young Adult" will be a series of open discussions directed by half a dozen physicians and ministers. Class sessions will include the physical and psychological problems faced by the maturing adult, and sexual development in the young adult of the 1970s.

"The Black Experience in the U.S.A. — History's Missing Pages." will investigate the black experience through the eyes of various black leaders who will be invited as guest speakers.

In "Ceramics," students will learn fundamentals such as coil, pinch and slab, and the use of the potter's wheel.

The rest of the 35 offerings touch on darkroom techniques, Latin American literature, gourmet cooking, yoga, tennis, law, bridge and creative theatre.

"Mini courses are designed not only to enrich a senior's last weeks at the high school, but also to serve as pilots for full-scale courses, or for units within a larger course.

N. J. TURNPIKE CITED

For Accident Record. For the second straight year, the New Jersey Turnpike has scored the best accident record of all major toll roads in the nation.

It has maintained its traffic safety leadership with an overall accident rate of 85.6 that topped all the other highway toll facilities logging a billion or more vehicles in 1971. Also, a fatality rate of 1.27, the lowest in its 20-year history, despite the ever-mounting traffic increases which reached 10 percent last year.

Chairman Alfred E. Driscoll also noted that the New Jersey Turnpike's safety ratings were far ahead of the average computed for the 22 toll facilities listed by the I.B.T.T.A.

He was happy to hear that U.S. toll roads compiled their "finest safety record ever in 1971, achieving a rate of 2.05 fatalities for 100 million miles travelled," as reported by the I.B.T.T.A.

"As on the New Jersey Turnpike," he added, "toll road deaths are declining although traffic is increasing. This points up the important contribution of the toll road industry to the nation's economy and well-being. It is indeed gratifying to note that the New Jersey Turnpike is in the forefront of that effort."

Although the New Jersey Turnpike led all the other major toll roads with respect to accident rates, it was nosed out by the Massachusetts Pike for the lowest fatality rate. However, statistics supplied by the I.B.T.A. showed that mileage travelled on the New Jersey Turnpike last year more than doubled Massachusetts'.

The New Jersey Turnpike's accident rate of 85.6 was 4 percent under 1970's 89.3 while the fatality rate was cut by one-third — from 1.92 to 1.27.

The rates are based on the number of accidents or fatalities averaged out for every 100 million vehicle miles.

TAX SYSTEM FAVORED

Based on Ability to Pay. Nearly three out of four New Jersey citizens favor a tax system which would be based on one's ability to pay, according to results of the second New Jersey Poll conducted by the Eagleton Institute of Politics at Rutgers University.

Responding to a question whether taxation should be related to ability to pay, 72 percent of the state's residents felt that "people who make more money should be taxed at a higher rate than people earning less money."

On the same question, 24 percent of those polled believed "everyone should be taxed at the same rate," and four percent had no opinion.

The poll, which contacted a total of 1,221 state residents between Feb. 18 and 28, also asked whether respondents regarded a variety of present and proposed taxes as fair or unfair.

The poll found that New Jerseyans clearly regarded taxes on cigarettes and alcohol as the most equitable form of taxation and property taxes as the least equitable.

Property Tax "Unfair." A total of 51 percent considered property taxes as unfair as opposed to 24 percent who considered them fair. By comparison, 58 percent called cigarette and alcohol taxes fair while 28 percent called them unfair.

Other taxes received a mixed reaction, with business, sales and gasoline taxes being regarded as fair by a little more than a third of those polled.

The breakdown in these categories:

- Business income — 37 percent fair, 19 percent unfair
- Sales — 37 percent fair, 42 percent unfair
- Gasoline — 36 percent fair, 45 percent unfair

The poll found that only 34 percent called a personal income tax fair while 41 percent believed it unfair. And 70 percent of those who believed the income tax to be fair, favored the imposition of such a tax if coupled with substantial property tax reduction, the poll found.

Residents earning $15,000 a year or more regarded all taxes as fair except for the property tax, while all others considered only cigarette and alcohol taxes to be fair, according to results.

The poll was supported by a grant from the Wallace-Elja-Bar Foundation and the Eagleton Institute. Results were tabulated by the Opinion Research Corporation.

CLEAN-UP PLANNED

By Red Cross Youth. The Princeton Chapter, American Red Cross, will hold its second annual Ecology Clean-Up Week this spring during the week of April 24-29.

Last year's Clean-Up involved 2,500 students for an entire week cleaning up parks and streets in the Princeton-Hightstown Area.

This year, besides the cleaning up, Red Cross Youth will sponsor a poster contest in the elementary and middle school grades for posters concerning cleaning up the environment. The posters submitted will be judged, then the collection will be rotated throughout the participating schools.

Red Cross Youth invites all youth groups in the area which includes East and West Windsor, Hightstown, Princeton, Cranbury and Montgomery, to participate in the effort to clean up the environment by picking up litter. The Red Cross has a list of places most in need, and asks those interested in helping to call 924-2404.

ART, FROM YOUTH

On Display. A Youth Show sponsored by the Princeton Art Association will be on display in McCarter Theatre from this Friday, through May 15.

A public reception will be held at McCarter next Wednesday, April 12, from 5-7 p.m. for the young artists and the community.

REGATTA HERE SATURDAY

Against Rutgers. The first of only two regattas which are scheduled on Lake Carnegie for Princeton's varsity crew this spring will take place Saturday. Princeton and Rutgers will compete for the Logg Cup, with the Tigers hoping to retain the trophy they won a year ago at New Brunswick.

Three races constitute the day's program, all covering the Olympic distance of 2,000 meters. The freshman crews will leave the stake boats at 4, the jayvees at 4:15 and the varsities at 4:30.

Two hours earlier, the first women's crew to wear Orange and Black will be in action on the lake. Princeton's girls will row against Middletown High School of Connecticut at 2 o'clock.

The only other spectator sports set for Saturday are tennis matches on the University Courts. The men face Colgate at 2 (following a Friday match at 3 against Georgetown), with the women opening their season at 3 against Glassboro State.

2 SHUTOUTS FOR TIGERS

One a No-Hitter. A seven-inning no-hitter by Randy Blevins and a 13-0 shutout to which Steve McLean coasted on a grand slam by Tony Riposta marked the first three days of Princeton's home baseball season on Clarke Field.

After Blevins shut out Maine 4-0, facing only 22 batters, in the first game of a doubleheader Saturday, the Tigers failed to make it a clean sweep when they lost the second contest, 5-1. Monday afternoon, however, saw chill breezes dissipated by hot Princeton bats as the victors scored 13 times in the first four innings to raise their record to 6-2-1.

MAN OF THE MOMENT: Randy Blevins (arrow) being offered more hands than he can shake following the no-hit game he pitched Saturday against Maine. Tigers took their home opener, 4-0, but lost second contest of doubleheader, 5-1.

Blevins, a junior who had a good 5-2 mark a year ago, was in virtually complete control of the visiting New England nine, which was playing outdoors for the first time this season. He struck out nine and the only close calls he had both came in the sixth inning when line drives were flagged by shortstop Jeff Davis and left fielder Steve Brown. Actually, Blevins only missed a perfect game because the first batter he faced reached base on a throwing error by Davis. He took care of the rest, striking out the first two batters in the seventh and then watching Davis make the long throw from short on a ground-er that wrapped up the ball game.

The Tigers broke up a scoreless tie in the bottom of the fourth on a bases-loaded single by Brown that scored center fielder Pete Korsan from third. They added two in the fifth when Blevins reached first on an error, scored on a triple by third baseman John Davren, with Davren crossing on catcher Bill Binder's single.

A pair of dropped flies in left field by Brown put more pressure on junior Bill Coppedge in the third inning of the nightcap than he could withstand after having suffered from flu earlier in the week. Five runs, four of them unearned, scored before the inning was over, and good pitching by a pair of Maine hurlers made them stand up easily.

In the Temple game, Riposta's bases-loaded homer came in the fourth, with the Tigers already leading, 9-0, but it created highly audible enthusiasm among the few spectators and the Tiger outfielder's teammates. The shot cleared the fence in left, landing better than 330 feet from the plate.

In all, Riposta was 3 for 6, with six rbi's. He was joined in the extra-base onslaught by John Davren, Bill Binder and Pete Korsan, all with doubles. Korsan matching him with three safeties and only four official trips to the plate.

Four in the first and four more in the second preceded the five-run fourth. McLean, meanwhile, was holding the Owls to four hits and three walks during the seven innings he worked. Sophomore Steve Crandall pitched the last two rounds, picking up three strikeouts while preserving the whitewash job for McLean.

New York University was on the schedule here Wednesday at 3:30, with Manhattan coming Friday for a game at that same hour. The Tigers go to New Brunswick next Wednesday for the first of a home-and-home series with Rutgers before starting their quest for the Eastern League title that has evaded them for the past two decades.

LACROSSE TEAM WHIPPED

Faces Navy Next. Bringing a band, a cannon and a host of fans to Finney Field Saturday — to say nothing of a good lacrosse team — Johns Hopkins ran all over Princeton's outmanned forces. The Bluejays, whose cannon was fired each time they scored, led by 5-0 after one period and 9-0 in the third quarter before the Tigers' found the mark.

The visitors had a 12-1 lead when Princeton began to pare it down, but there was never doubt about the outcome. It was a 16-8 final.

The Tigers face Navy at Annapolis Saturday, again very much in the role of the underdog. Their record is now 2-1.

RUMORS CLOUD FUTURE OF Princeton Basketball

Nothing definite could be learned this week, but there were reports in circulation that will greatly alter the course of basketball at Princeton should they prove accurate.

Well-known, of course, is the likelihood that Brian Taylor, the junior who achieved All-American status, has filed for consideration in the National Basketball Association hardship draft and that he will, if selected, play off NBA and ABA bids for his services as a professional next fall.

Added to the probability of his departure a year before his eligibility ends is the rumor that:

• Coach Pete Carril has decided to retire from the Princeton scene after five years during which the Tigers have frequently penetrated the top twenty rankings. A report circulating here this week indicates that he may return to coach at Lehigh, his last stopping point before taking over here for Bill Van Breda Kolff.

• Freshman Coach Art Hyland, who would very possibly be Carril's successor should he remove himself from the picture, may not be on hand to throw his hat in the ring. Hyland's name is reportedly under consideration for an administrative vacancy in the Eastern College Athletic Conference offices in New York.

Nets Hold Rights to Taylor. The only firm indication that Taylor may turn pro is the announcement of some weeks ago by the New York Nets that they have drafted him as a possible member of their 1972-73 personnel. The Nets said at the time that they were honoring his amateur status by not approaching him until the end of the current season, but, like all ABA teams, they have no scruples about dipping into the college ranks prior to the end of a player's senior year.

Insofar as the NBA is concerned, the official attitude is total silence. It is NBA policy not to reveal the names of those who apply for consideration as hardship cases — at least until such a draft is held, when the names of those actually selected are made public.

Meanwhile, in Newark last week, Taylor apparently came off something of a winner in the case of the Penn Central conductor whose allegations against him resulted in a charge by Newark police of threatening a man's life. After hearing the evidence advanced by the prosecutor's office, the judge refused to place the matter before a grand jury, in effect discharging Taylor.

The Princeton basketball player declared during the course of the proceedings that he had been roughed up by police, that his wrists had been hurt by a device similar to a handcuff that had been placed on him, and that he had been held incommunicado for nearly 24 hours after having been arrested on the train bound from Princeton Junction to New York. The incident stemmed from disagreement between Taylor and the conductor over Taylor's placing his feet on the seat opposite him.

Taylor is reportedly considering the possibility of bringing suit against Newark police for harassment and against the conductor for false charges, based on obscene remarks which the latter attributed under oath to Taylor.

SPRING SPORTS BEGIN

At Princeton High. All spring sports at Princeton High School will get under way this week.

The baseball team will play its second game of the season and home opener next Tuesday afternoon at 3:45 against Cathedral. Coach Harry Zoll's Little Tigers were scheduled to open their season Wednesday afternoon at Ewing.

The track team will engage in three dual meets in its first week of operation, beginning with its home opener Thursday against Bridgewater Raritan West. Starting time is 12 noon.

On Saturday, Coach Larry Ivan's cindermen will be in New Brunswick for a 10 a.m. meet, and on Monday at 3:45 the Blue and White will entertain St. Anthony's.

Marv Trotman's lacrosse team will play probably the two toughest teams on the schedule — back to back.

The Maplewood Lacrosse Club will be here Saturday at 1:30 for a contest at Community Park which will be the Little Tigers' home opener. Next Wednesday, the team will be at Montclair.

It was scheduled to open its season this Wednesday at Fairlawn.

The PHS tennis team, which under coach Bill Humes has been the winningest team at the school in past years, will open an expanded 16-match schedule Monday at Metuchen. Wednesday, the team will be at Millburn.

The team will open at home next Friday against New Brunswick. Millburn and Lawrenceville School are newcomers to the schedule.

The girls track team, which also plays an expanded schedule this year, will open at home Wednesday at 3:45, entertaining J. P. Stevens.

The girls will engage in ten dual meets this spring. Lamont Fletcher is the coach.

For PDS Lacrosse Team. The Princeton Day Lacrosse team got its first winning season under its belt last year, finishing with a fine 0-4 mark, but it will have its hands full this year trying to continue above .500.

A dozen or so lettermen return, but the Panthers have lost several skilled players not just through graduation but for a host of other reasons as well.

Attackman Tim Smith and midfielder Sam Rodgers gave the Blue and White a strong scoring punch last year, that will be badly missed. Both graduated last June. Midfielder Cam Ferrante is recovering from a knee operation done over spring vacation, and will not play at all, perhaps depriving the Panthers of an all-Ferrante midfield. Both his brothers, Geoff and Grayson, a freshman, will be available. John Kalpin, an able defenseman last year, is exercising the senior option of taking a semester off from sports and is working for an architect. His model of the New Jersey pavilion for the Bicentennial won fourth prize in a state contest.

Two others talented players, George Mayzell and Andy

Tomlinson, have both transferred to other schools. Finally, experienced players like Paul Funk and Art Mittnacht will be lost for the first three or four weeks because of their involvement in senior projects.

All this leaves coach Chuck Simpson, taking over the helm this year from Clint Wilkins, with several holes to fill. Happily, he does have experience in the goal in co-captain Andy Houston. The other co-captain, John Gordon, will be used where he's needed most, at attack or midfield.

Simpson has just a week to get ready. PDS opens at George School next Wednesday, and meets Lawrenceville "B" away at 3:30 Friday. The home opener will be Wednesday, April 19, against Peddie "B".

SEES 50-50 SEASON

For Girls Track Team. Lamont Fletcher was an outstanding hurdler for the Princeton High School track team in the early 1960s.

For the past two years he has been coach of the girls track team at PHS and has been instrumental in the renaissance of the sport at the school. Last spring, the girls won five of eight dual meets but this year Fletcher says, "Overall, we might have a 50-50 season."

"I don't want to make any predictions. Last year, we had the potential." What makes Fletcher hesitant this season is the loss through graduation of three of his best runners — Lindsay Blattner, Andrea Bowman and Betty Woodbridge — plus competition which he says "has definitely improved."

FRANCIE WALSTAD, a junior, returns as one of the premier quarter milers on the PHS girls track team. She is sole survivor of a PHS quarter that last year broke the 1 7/8 mile medley relay record at Long Branch by 38 seconds.

Three new opponents on the PHS schedule are Brick Township, Ocean Township and Toms River. "I don't know anything about them," said Fletcher.

Lori Bowman Captain, Senior Lori Bowman, the team captain, and three juniors are the nucleus of this year's squad, which numbers about 40, including, says Fletcher, a couple of freshmen who have looked pretty good. Lori will compete in the sprints — the 50, 100 and 220.

Karen Herzog returns as the number one hurdler. A state champion last year, she advanced as far as the regional junior olympics, Fletcher reported. At the sectional meet last year at Monmouth College, Karen was the fastest in all four sections. She has run the 120 yard hurdles in 17.7.

Francie Walstad and Karen Winn are two experienced quarter-milers. Walstad was a member of the PHS quartet that set a new Long Branch relay record in the 1 and 7/8 mile medley relay — a record which the PHS girls bettered by 38 seconds.

Among the sophomores from whom Fletcher looks for strong performances are sprinters Nadia El-Meligi and Karen Brooks; Devan Mathews, a hurdler and 220 sprinter, who Fletcher said "looked tremendous as a freshman last year"; Karen Wood, quarter and half-miler; and Cathy Trieman and Lisa Kausman, both half-milers.

"I think in the distance races we'll be the strongest," commented Fletcher. "A couple of freshmen are looking good, especially Sandy Cobb and Cathy Woodbridge." Cathy is a younger sister of last year's fine miler, Betty Woodbridge. Fletcher described her as a strong runner.

If PHS has had a weakness the past few years, it's been in the weight events. A newcomer to PHS this year expected to help the team out in this area is Debbie Brooks, a junior. She'll compete in the shot and discus.

Another is senior Nancy Dungan, who competed in the weight events last year. "I expect to see an improvement in her," said Fletcher.

Summing up, Fletcher allowed that the prospects for his third season "look pretty good." But there are question marks regarding the competition, weight events and potential of his freshmen and sophomores. This year, perforce, he's holding his cards a little closer to his vest.

HUN AT PERKIOMEN

Home Opener Wednesday. The Hun School baseball team under new coach Bill McQuade will begin a 17-game schedule Thursday at Perkiomen.

The Red and Black will open at home Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 when it entertains rival Pennington School. Hun is the defending Penn-Jersey League champion.

PERKS, HAC ALL EVEN

In Basketball Playoff. The playoff between Perks and Harrison Athletic Club for the championship of the Princeton Recreation Adult Basketball League is all even after two games. HAC won the first, 54-46, and Perks captured the second, 44-40.

In the latter, Bob Staats paced Perks with 16 points, 14 coming in the second half. Gil Radday, HAC's 6-8 center, led the losers with 16 points, including 6-for-6 from the foul line.

HAC led 8-5 after the first period and was up by one as late as the fourth, but Staats, who had been shooting poorly early in the game began hitting with jump shots, and his brother, Bill, converted four crucial free throws to stake Perks to a 40-38 lead with a minute to go.

The first game was all HAC, as Ed Riddick and Radday combined for 39 points — Riddick scoring a game-high 21. Bob Staats led Perks with 17. Harrison jumped to a commanding 15-4 lead and only the outside shooting of Mike Suder kept Perks in the contest. In the third period, Perks finally got its fast break working and outscored HAC, 16-5, to close within three. Riddick, however, pumped in three quick shots to put Harrison back in command.

Mother of 14 to Enter National Swimming Meet

A Master Swimmer--mother of 14 children, in the 40-44 age group, trim and fast as a dolphin--will be at poolside next week-end in Denver for the Second Annual Intermountain Masters Swim Championships.

She is Tink (Mrs. Joseph) Bolster of 124 Parkside Drive and this will be her first try at competitive swimming.

"I have no real background in swimming," she says, "but I was taught how to swim as a child in Spring Lake by a U.S. Olympic star, U.S. Howland, and that gave me a good start."

"About ten years ago, I felt that with a big family like mine, I needed some kind of physical fitness activity, so I took up swimming seriously. I did distances, and found that the farther I went, the better I was!"

Where Do I Stand? Last December, in a copy of "Swimming World," Tink Bolster saw a table giving the ten best times of Master Swimmers in age categories ranging from 25 to 29 up to 55-59.

"This was very interesting to me because I found myself in the middle. The top times were much better than I could do, but the slowest were a lot worse than mine, so in mid-January, I began stepped-up training for April in Denver."

Tink Bolster's times are 37.0 seconds in the 50-yard freestyle, compared with a top time nationally of 31.56; 3:18.0 in the 200-yard freestyle, which would have put her in fourth place; 1:26.5 in the 100-yard freestyle, for the seventh place nationally; 1:46.0 in the 100-yard breast-stroke (fifth place) and a pair of distance times--8:40.9 in the 500-yard freestyle and 29:36.5 in the 1650 yard freestyle--for which the "Swimming World" table had no comparable times.

Mrs. Bolster will enter all six events during the three-day meet. However, Denver is a mile high and she has some concern about the effect of the altitude. She plans to arrive early and acclimatize herself, but she is philosophical about the possible need to pull back. She may decide to enter only the 1,650 and the 500 yard events, or possibly only the sprints.

This week-end, she will join two other Princeton swimmers in the Garden State Swim Club meet in Berkeley Heights. Her colleagues in this, the first Masters Meet in New Jersey, will be John Stone and Mike Mahoney.

Stone, who lives at 64 Westcott Road, was graduated from Princeton in 1953. As an undergraduate he set two records--23.2 for the 50-yard freestyle and 52.2 for the 100-yard freestyle--which were not broken until 1961. At Berkeley Heights, he is entered in both the 50 and 100-yard freestyle. Stone is assistant director of development at the University.

Mahoney, in the University's Department of History, swam in his sophomore year at Harvard in 1960. Most of his real swimming, however, was done in his prep school days at Andover. Mahoney lives at 74 Western Way.

For Tink Bolster, stepped-up training has meant five days a week instead of four.

Mrs. Joseph Bolster

at 1,000 yards a day. (Her husband, Joseph L. Bolster Jr., is on the staff at the University and Mrs. Bolster has access to the pool in Dillon Gym and the advice of Coach Bill Farley.)

She began to swim ten 50's--500 yards--fast, every three minutes. Another day, she might do five 100's, again as fast as possible. "Interval" training like this did indeed bring down her times, but she admits that it was grueling.

Denver will be exciting, and she hopes to get some of her times ranked. But what she really wants to do is serve as an example to other Master swimmers who are over the age of 25.

"I hope other swimmers will begin to enter these meets," she says eagerly. "I'd hoped I might have some company going to Denver, but maybe next year....."

Toto's Market on the Scene Here for 60 Years

60th FOR TOTO'S: Toto's Market, 74 Witherspoon Street, this year celebrates its 60th anniversary — all 60 on Witherspoon Street. Two of the three generations who have been associated with the store are Albert Toto (left), son of Mr. and Mrs. Flory Toto, Sr. who opened the store in 1912; and Albert Toto, Jr. Success of the store has been derived in large measure, says "Albie" Toto, from its fresh, prime, custom-cut meats. Perhaps another reason is his statement that "We haven't raised our meat prices in three years." There has been some increase, however. An old ad, which Albie places at about 1929, lists shoulder of lamb and shoulder of pork at 18 cents a pound, fresh ham at 22 cents and round steak at 30.

One of the victims of this country's partiality for bigness and efficiency has been the neighborhood grocery store.

The supermarket has all but wiped out the small corner store where the shopkeeper knew all his customers by name. A few, however, still survive: One such oasis in Princeton is Toto's Market, 74 Witherspoon Street, which this year is celebrating its 60th anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Flory Toto, Sr. opened their first store in 1912 at 114 Witherspoon. Among its first customers were the Princeton University eating clubs on Prospect Avenue, which it provided mainly with wholesale vegetables, reports Albert Toto, Jr., Mrs. Toto's grandson who has been an active worker at the market for the past six years.

Some years later, Toto's Market moved across the street, and in 1927 it came to its present location near the intersection of Witherspoon and Wiggins.

BUSINESS In Princeton

His grandmother, Lucy Toto, who died last January at 76, was "quite a woman," recalls young "Albie" Toto. She worked here full time until she was 75," he said, "and did all the butchering. Meat cutting was her pride and joy."

"She continued to lug 150-pound sides of beef all by herself," he said, "until she was 72 or 73. She never asked for any help. You couldn't keep her away."

Illness forced her husband to stop working in the store about 20 years before he died in 1966. Albie stated, "Grandma was the driving force."

Son Carries On. Carrying on the thriving business today are Mrs. Toto's son, Albert Toto Sr.; his wife, Ida, and their son, Albie, 25, who was married in October. After attending a business college in Michigan for two years, Albie came to work full time in the store. An old friend of his, Sal Balestrieri, recently discharged from the Navy, works with them.

"Three generations," says Mrs. Toto, a warm and effervescent person, "you don't find too many like that today. By the time they reach the third generation, they're out of business."

A great many of Toto's customers have been shopping there for years — some all their adult lives. Albie told of one who moved to California, returned on a visit here and ordered five pounds of veal cutlets "because she couldn't find any like Toto's anywhere else." She took them, frozen, back to California with her.

Why this loyalty? Although Toto's has fresh vegetables, frozen foods, ice cream and, despite its small space, many items a super market has, the chief reason is probably the fresh meats.

DISCRIMINATION — based on race, creed, color, national origin, sex or marital status in the sale or rental of houses or apartments is illegal. TOWN TOPICS assumes that its advertisers intend to obey the LAW. For information contact Joint Princeton Commission on Civil Rights, 4 Green St., Princeton, N. J., 08540 Tel. 924-7138.

"Meat Our Speciality." "Meat is our speciality," acknowledges Albie. "All our meat is cut the way the customer orders it. Nothing is pre-cut, nothing pre-ground. And it's all prime — the finest money can buy, except lamb. We always order prime, but we can't always get it. In addition to the more popular cuts such as roasts and filets, Toto's has speciality meats — calves and beef liver and sweetbreads. Their poultry for Thanksgiving and Christmas — turkeys, geese, squabs — is all fresh-killed."

Service and Quality. Toto's Market is small — about the size of an average living room and dining room combined. The center is dominated by a meat cutting block and the frozen locker, in which carcasses of fresh meat hang. Articles of food and canned goods fill every nook and cranny.

"We want to keep the same old fashioned flare to the store as much as we can," said Albie. "Space is a problem."

"Quality and service is really all we have to offer. We have a clientele I wouldn't trade for the world."

Although 80 percent of his customers shop by phone, Albie says "we like to have them come in from time to time in person. We're happy when a customer walks in. We feel our customers are our best advertisers. One of his greatest satisfactions, he said, is to watch the children of life-long customers grow up."

Changes Noted. Asked what changes he had observed in his customers, Albie replied, "They've gotten a lot smarter. They're beginning to realize you get only what you pay for. "Service and quality is something I think is being lost today. From my own experiences, said Albie, "I find you have to hassle too much for service that rightfully belongs to you."

Perhaps that is the key to the success of Toto's Market over the past 60 years, offering as it does the pleasurable, friendly, even social experiences of small-town shopping. Something Lucy Toto, no doubt, knew all along.

NAMED FELLOWS BY RCA
Three Princetonians Cited.
Dr. Benjamin Abeles, Dr. Richard Williams and Dr. J. Guy Woodward have been named Fellows of the Technical Staff of RCA Laboratories here.

Dr. William M. Webster, Vice-President, said the Fellow designation is comparable to the same title used in universities and technical societies. It is given by RCA in recognition of a record of sustained technical contributions in the past and in anticipation of continued technical contributions in the future.

Dr. Abeles, a native of Czechoslovakia, has done research in the fields of galvanomagnetic effects, thermoelectricity, microwave phonons and superconductivity. A graduate of the University of London in 1944, he received a Master's degree from Charles University in Prague in 1949 and Ph.D. degree in Physics from Hebrew University in Jerusalem in 1956. Since joining RCA Laboratories as a trainee in 1956, he has received three RCA Laboratories Achievement Awards, and in 1963, he received the RCA Corporation's highest technical honor, the David Sarnoff Award in Science.

He is a Fellow of the American Physical Society and a member of the executive committee of the Division of Solid State Physics. Dr. Abeles lives at 115 Randall Road with his wife, the former Ann Singer of Rego Park, New York City. They have three children, Katherine, 13, Susan, 11; and David, 6.

Dr. Williams has performed research on the electrical properties of insulators, internal photoemission, solid surfaces, high electric fields of solids, liquid crystals and electrons on the surface of liquid helium. A native of Chicago, he was graduated from Miami University (Oxford, Ohio) in 1950 and received his Ph.D. in Physical Chemistry from Harvard in 1954. He joined RCA Laboratories in 1958 and has since received two RCA Laboratories Achievement Awards and a David Sarnoff Award in Science.

In 1969, he was a Fulbright Lecturer in the Escola de Engenharia, San Carlos, Brazil. Dr. Williams is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and a Fellow of the American Physical Society.

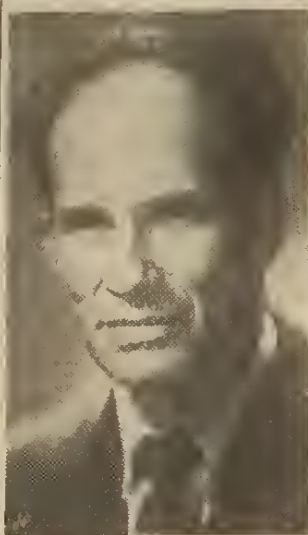

He lives at 25 Wheatshaf Lane with his wife, the former Alma Eusebetti of Kingston. They have three children, Elena, 10; Cristina, 9; and Matthew, 4.

GIRLS MADE ELIGIBLE

For High School Varsity Teams. A pilot program approved last week by the New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association that will allow girls to try out for high school varsity sports will have little effect at Princeton High School.

That is the opinion of Norman V. Van Arsdalen, director of athletics at PHS. Under the one-year program, no sport would be barred to female participation.

"Actually, we have a broad program of intramural and interscholastic sports for girls that includes most of the things they're discussing," said Van Arsdalen. "We have no girls on the golf or bowling teams and it is very likely someone could apply for that."

Golf and bowling are two sports, together with tennis, that are mentioned most in which girls could compete on a varsity level. At PHS, Dan McGuire is coach of both the bowling and golf teams. No girl as yet has applied to him, Van Arsdalen said, to join either team. If any did, he continued, "we would certainly give it every consideration."

Strong Program Now. One reason the program went into effect, Van Arsdalen feels, is that intramural sport programs are not always equal. "In many places, girls are out in left field in athletics." No so at PHS. In addition to a fine intramural program, there are varsity, junior varsity and freshman teams in lacrosse and tennis and a track and softball team—all on an interscholastic level.

"One thing that I've worried about in this whole focus on girls' athletics—and I don't think it is true of our district—is that it is a cheap way out," commented Van Arsdalen. "It's a way to save money."

As an example, he said that instead of several tennis teams, a school could have just one big team and invite everyone to try out—boys and girls. "If you don't make it, too bad."

The NJSIAA was prodded into accepting open competition by court cases. Abbie Selden, a 15-year old student who wanted to play on the Teaneck High School tennis team, filed a Federal suit in January. She charged that the NJSIAA ruling that bars competition between boys and girls violates the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment.

The Association has acted on the application of two girls to play on their school's varsity golf team. Joann Eufemia of Hightstown has approval from the coach and school officials to play on the team. She described the one-year open competition plan as "a dream come true."

Donna Stepkovich of Franklin High School, who shoots in the low 80s, said that she was looking forward to joining the boys.

In sports where member schools of the NJSIAA provide an interscholastic program for girls, the open competition program would not apply. So, no matter how proficient a girl may be with a tennis racket at PHS, she is going to play on the girls' team.

An antiques show and sale will be held at the United Methodist Church of Cranbury from 10 to 5 on Saturday, April 29. The Women's Society of Christian Service is sponsor. Reputable antiques dealers from throughout the area will take part. There will also be craft demonstrations, a snack bar, a bake sale and a craft boutique. Mrs. Daphne O'Brien and Mrs. Charlotte Kramer are co-chairmen.

Weekly meditation and self-inquiry sessions have resumed at Satyam Shivam Sundaram, 425 Alexander Street at 8 p.m. on Fridays. Students and the public are welcomed. Tambura music will accompany the meditation. Further information is available from Sri Shyam Bhatnagar, 924-4883; Mrs. Richard Will, 896-0881, or at Nature's Best, 242 Nassau Street.

CLASSES TO START

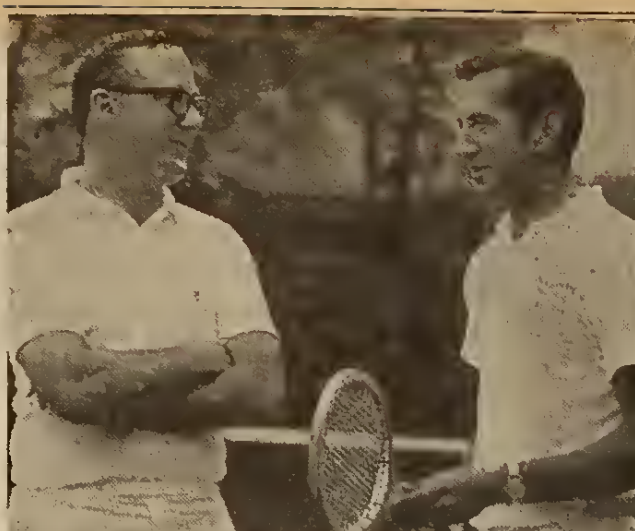

In Tennis for All Ages. The Princeton Community Tennis Program will begin Saturday with more than 700 boys and girls and 300 men and women registered in a complex of 65 separate group classes arranged by age and ability. Each class meets once a week throughout the spring season.

In case of rain, all classes will meet indoors, as noted on the confirmation slips, except for John Conroy's advanced groups. Those registered in YWCA morning women's classes should note that the class location has been changed from the Hun School to Community Park courts.

Students are urged to dress appropriately for the weather and white is not required. School clothes are acceptable; slacks and sweaters are especially recommended on cool days.

For those who need rackets or balls, discount sales are in progress this week at all sporting goods stores. Anyone registered in the Community Program, YWCA or YMCA is eligible for the discount.

Each student is required to donate one can of new balls to his class in order to provide the hundreds needed at each session for effective group instruction.

Used balls are urgently requested. Anyone who has a supply in good condition may bring them to any of the instructors or to the Recreation

Office on State Road 206.

If a youngster cannot afford to purchase a tennis racket, he may borrow one from the teachers during class lessons. Those desiring further information should check with the instructors in charge of classes at Community Park courts.

NEW SWIM TEAM FORMED

Affiliated with AAU. A new community swimming team, as yet unnamed, has recently been formed in Princeton by a group of interested swimmers, parents, and coaches, under the auspices of the Princeton Joint Recreation Department. The team is affiliated with the Amateur Athletic Union.

"The need for such a group has been increasingly obvious in recent years," said the president of the new organization, Mrs. Beverly Sweetman. "There are many more swimmers in this area than there are programs to accommodate them." One thousand swimmers, she noted, tried out last summer for the 12 summer swim clubs in the area, and the Princeton YMCA Flying Fish program has had to turn away applicants.

The purpose of the team, according to Mrs. Sweetman, "is to provide a high-level, year-round, competitive program with sufficient pool time and excellent coaching. The goal," she continued, "is to build a strong team over a period of years. The team will especially seek younger members, although membership will be open to swimmers of all ages." The head coach will be Bill Farley, coach of the Ivy League championship swimming.

It was the first time within memory of the Princeton Pastors' Association that a member had died while holding a ministry here. The 125-year-old church was filled to capacity at the funeral service on Saturday morning.

The service was led by the Rev. Dr. William LeG. Tucker, pastor emeritus; Rev. George E. Sweazy of Princeton Theological Seminary, Rev. Dr. Donald M. Meisel of First Presbyterian Church and the Rev. Donald Mitchell of New Zealand who paid tribute to the Rev. Mr. Liffiton for his deep sense of responsibility, his stewardship and his role as an ecumenist. "He was a good pastor. He knew and loved his people," the Rev. Dr. Meisel said.

Born in Wanganui, New Zealand, the Rev. Mr. Liffiton was educated at Wanganui Collegiate School, Otago University and earned from the Presbyterian Hall a licentiate of theology degree. He received a bachelor of divinity degree from Union Theological Seminary, New York, and his master of theology degree from Princeton Theological Seminary.

During World War II, he served in the New Zealand Air Force. He worked in the family real estate business for two years before he entered training in the Presbyterian ministry.

In 1961 he became pastor of St. Andrew's Church, then known as Second Presbyterian Church. In the years since, he served as chairman of the Commission on Evangelism of the New Jersey Synod, and served on the boards of directors of the Westminster Foundation at Princeton University, Westminster Choir College and the Princeton YMCA.

In 1971, the Rev. Mr. Liffiton was commissioner to the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. For many years he was acting chaplain of the Anzac memorial services held in New York City.

The Rev. Mr. Liffiton was one of the Teaching Pastors of Princeton Theological Seminary, a member of the Princeton Symposium, and former president of the Princeton Pastors' Association.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Margaret N. Liffiton; two sons, Bruce 9 and John 7; two sisters, Mrs. Alex Armstrong and Mrs. Victor Coe, and a brother, Norman Liffiton, all of New Zealand.

Interment was in Princeton Cemetery, with arrangements made by the Kimble Funeral Home. Memorial gifts may be sent to the Memorial Fund of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church.

Arthur McC. Conger, 84, of 401 Nassau Street, died March 29 in the Medical Center of Princeton. He was a Princeton resident for the past 50 years.

Mr. Conger was born in Rosemont, Pa., the son of the Rev. Arthur B. Conger, founder and rector of the Episcopal Church of the Good Shepherd, and of Mary Stockton Conger, formerly of Princeton. He was educated at Episcopal Academy, Philadelphia and Princeton University, where he was graduated in 1909. At Princeton he was an outstanding quarter-miler on the track team. He was formerly associated with Scribner's Magazine.

He was a member of the Nassau Club, the Old Guard, the Nassau Gun Club, Bay Head Yacht Club and Sons of the Revolution. He was keenly interested in the vital roles some of his forebears played in the early history of New Jersey and New York. He provided historians with information and anecdotes about such figures as Richard Stockton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence and Commodore Robert Field Stockton. He had a lifelong love of the outdoors and went on hunting, fishing and other excursions in the Eastern United States, and wrote many stories for the children in his family and of those of his friends to show them the excitement and relevance of nature's scene.

As a young man, he won an impromptu quarter-mile race with a young German he met in a Chicago park. The stranger, Putzi Hofstangle, became a well-known Nazi propagandist.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Conger; two sons, Richard S. of Princeton and Honolulu, and Stephen McC. of Bethesda, Md., and one sister, Miss Helen R. Conger of Bryn Mawr, Pa.

team at Princeton University. Mr. Farley conducted the summer competitive swimming program last year at Community Pool.

The new group has arranged with the Joint Recreation Department to take much of the responsibility for the competitive program which has been run for several years at Community Pool under the auspices of the Recreation Board. In most respects, the new program will be similar to previous programs.

Swimmers who train with the new group may compete in AAU meets for the Princeton community team if they wish, and the organizers expect that the team will eventually send individual swimmers and relays to state, regional, and national meets. However, competitors who are affiliated with other teams may join the program for training purposes only, and will not be obligated to compete for the Princeton team.

"The team is being formed not to replace existing programs, but to supplement them," said Mrs. Sweetman. "We're trying to reach more people, and provide opportunities for more kids who want to join a swimming team."

Details about work-out schedules and fees are currently being worked out with Recreation Department. Further announcements will be made soon.

ouncements will be made soon.

The Sloop class joined the fleet for the first time this spring, as Paul Porter, assisted by crewman Greg Osband, won four races and a first place ranking.

The nine-day course will be held Monday evenings from 7:30 to 8:30, Thursday evenings from 7 to 8 and Saturday mornings from 8:45 to 9:40. It is designed to give individual attention to each swimmer, regardless of his ability.

BOWLING NOTES

Baldino Rolls 267. Joe Baldino of Cenerino Lounge in the A League spilled 267 pins in his third game last week at the Princeton Recreation Lanes which, added to his 165-190, produced a 622 series. His 267 is just three pins shy of the high single game of the season fashioned by Don Koch of No. 1½ in the Tri-County League.

Baldino wasn't the only one having a hot night in the league. Tom Sculerati of Balestrieri rolled 217-233-191 for 641 and Lucar Hardware's John Donaldson showed that a month away from the lanes hadn't hurt his game when he rolled 256.

Chuck Voorhees had 238, Jim Kahny 235 and Tony Baldino of Princeton Market, 224. Harry Kahny of Ivy Inn had a pair: 208-200. Between 213 and 200 were Bill Murphy, Frank Delneso, Larry McHugh, John Baldino, John Balestrieri, Joe Procaccini, Bob Cifelli and Jack Petrone.

Balestrieri enjoys a 40-38 lead over Hesco Electric in the standings. Rialto Barber Shop and Princeton Market are tied for third at 36 each.

Jim Shely of Princeton Aviation was high in the Nassau League with a 247. Tom Sculerati of Grover Lumber and Albert Petrella of IASC each rolled 237s. Joe Procaccini had 220. Others: George Luck, 214; Otto Marcolini, 211; and Bert Sferri, 203.

Tiger Garage has 58 points and a 14-point lead in the standings. Bunched at 44-all are Crescents, IASC and Grover Lumber.

Bill Davall of No. 3 in the Firemen's League sandwiched a 168 between 228-223 for 619; Robert Staats of Belle Mead rolled 202-202-183 for 587, while Leslie Luck of KFD had 195-190.

Others above 200 were Bob Micinski, 213; Bill Richardson, 212; Alan Querec, 209; and Jack Zinsmeister, 202. In the 190s were Tom Johnson, Paul Tereski, Stan Tantum, Robert Richardson and John Clausen (199).

Belle Mead and Dutch Neck are tied for second place with 46 points each, two behind pace setting Lawrenceville. KFD is third with 40.

Sara Rose fashioned the only 200 game in the Business Women League, rolling 211-178 (508). She rolls for Rocky Hill Inn. Others: Gail Echevarria, 180; Dail Forsyth, 179; Marilyn Silvester, 177; and Shirley Cashill, 175.

Sally Flagg of Thorne's Pharmacy rolled a 161-64 pins over her average.

The top three teams in the standings are Nassau Conover Rocky Hill Inn and Tamasi Plumbing with 52, 46 and 38 points.

Judge Tams Asks For Probation Counselors

Borough Judge Theodore T. Tams Jr. is seeking volunteers from the community to aid in his newly-announced Princeton Volunteer Probation Counselor Program.

Studies of similar programs across the nation, he said, reveal a high degree of success in rehabilitating criminal offenders into law-abiding citizens.

Volunteer probation counselors must be 18 or over, U.S. citizens, mature and willing to accept responsibilities and guidelines set down by the Probation Department. In addition, they should have a positive feeling for people and a realistic attitude toward their abilities to cope and adjust in our society.

A stable employment record is desirable. Students or housewives should have some recent experience in community activity and ample time to devote to the program. A criminal record does not necessarily disqualify a person, said Judge Tams.

The program also seeks volunteers from among the professions who will act as support for the volunteer consulting services. It hopes to take advantage of existing community services and plan an inter-relationship with other similar services that are presently working in the community. A six-week training program (one night a week) will be given each volunteer.

Those interested are asked to send their names and addresses to: Volunteer Probation Counselors Program, Princeton Borough Municipal Court, P.O. Box 390, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Applicants will receive an application form to be filled out and returned to the court. They will be further contacted by a representative from the court.

In addition, the program asked for cooperation from employers since one of the basic needs for many probationers is to find a job. Employers willing to hire probationers should contact Borough court.

The program is being sponsored by Simon J. Falcey, Chief Probation Officer of Mercer County. He has appointed George B. Eldridge, senior probation officer for the County, to work with Borough Court and the volunteer probationer counselors.

The emphasis, Judge Tams said, will be on a one-to-one relationship between the counselor and probationer. Great flexibility and initiative will be left to the individual counselor, he said.

OWN A HORSE?

Time to Vaccinate. New Jersey horse owners who did not have their animals vaccinated against Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis last year are advised to do so now, according to Dr. Edwin L. Brower, director, Division of Animal Health, New Jersey Department of Agriculture.

He also recommended that any 1971 colts that were not vaccinated last year or were under six months of age when vaccinated should be inoculated. Vaccination of pregnant mares, he said, must be at the owner's discretion; research is now in progress on the effects of the vaccine on pregnant animals. Revaccination of animals over six months of age which were vaccinated last year is not recommended.

Last year, in a month-long program to safeguard horses against this disease which invaded the United States in 1971, 39,694 New Jersey horses were inoculated, about 90 percent of the State's equine population. Free vaccine was supplied by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, which also paid for its administration. This program will not be repeated this year. Adequate supplies of commercial vaccine are now available to private veterinarians.

Dr. Brower reminded horse owners that many states have specific regulations about VEE vaccination of horses imported from other states. He suggested that they make sure they obtain a vaccination certificate from their veterinarian and retain it.

Dr. Brower also advised horse owners to vaccinate against eastern and western encephalitis which, unlike VEE, commonly occur in New Jersey. The VEE vaccine is not effective against these strains of the disease. A bivalent vaccine is available which gives protection against both the eastern and western strains of encephalitis. Two injections are necessary, administered seven to ten days apart. Unlike the VEE vaccine, the vaccine for eastern and western encephalitis gives immunity for only one year.

All inoculations should be completed before the start of the mosquito season. The viruses which cause all three diseases are transmitted primarily by mosquitoes.

News Of The CHURCHES

ANNUAL MEETING HELD

By Unitarians. Officers were elected for the coming year at the recent annual meeting of the Unitarian Church of Princeton. Chester A. Aronson of Skillman presided.

Those named are: Mr. Aronson, president; Colleen Huckabee, secretary; William Rogers, vice president, administration; Charles Ascher, vice president, finance; Laurence Levine, vice - president, program, and William Huckabee, vice president, religious education.

Trustees elected for three-year terms are Doris Allen and Virginia Levine; Kathy Murphy was chosen as youth trustee.

About 150 members and friends attended the traditional pot luck buffet before the meeting. Mr. Aronson singled out for special mention the dedication of the memorial garden, the Social Concerns Committee involvement in prison reform and TIME OUT, a continuing retreat.

The proposed budget, presented by Carl Haag, financial vice-president, was approved. Mr. Haag noted that the congregation raised an additional $4,200 to repair damages to the church from hurricane Doria.

More than 400 children and adults are involved in the religious education program. Minister of Education Fred Ward reported. The Rev. Mr. Ward will leave the church in June to study at New York University. The pastor, Rev. Robert L. Cope, closed the meeting with his recollections of the church year.

TO MARK WOMEN'S DAY

Monitors Will Report. Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane, will honor women members this Sunday at the 10 a.m. service and at 11 will hear reports from monitors who have been observing the local courts, boards of education and municipal governments during Lent, the Rev. Kenneth S. Dannenhauer has announced.

The worship service will be led by Miss Elizabeth C. Stone, minister-in-training, assisted by the women of the congregation. The service is part of the American Baptist Convention's services nationwide this Sunday in recognition of the National Council of American Baptist Women.

Participants include Laraine Bauer, Margaret Bennet, Amie Brockway, Emma Epps, Beulah Koulouris, Jean Maxwell, Ann and Diane Westover.

The Christian Social Concerns committee, chaired by Evelyn Baer, is in charge of the seminar at 11.

Further information may be obtained from Phyllis Ludwig, chairman, at (609) 737-1196.

Easter Celebration

Eastern Orthodox Easter will be celebrated this Sunday, in accordance with the custom of Eastern Christians to observe Easter after the completion of the Jewish Passover and as a recognition of the historic debt of Christianity to the Jewish faith.

There will be a service this Saturday in the Marquand Transcept of Princeton University Chapel. It begins at 11:30 p.m. with a Holy Saturday grand compline climaxing the Holy Week Services and continues with the Easter Matins and the Liturgy of Resurrection.

Rev. Professor Georges Florevski will celebrate the services, assisted by Rev. Professor John Turkevich. The Russian Church Choral Ensemble of Princeton, directed by Reverend Deacon Daniel Skvir, will sing the responses and hymns. The music will be monastic chants arranged by Russian composers.

FORMER TRINITY RECTOR: the Right Rev. Robert R. Spears Jr. of the Diocese of Rochester, N.Y., was one of three Episcopal bishops who conducted an ecumenical service last week in front of the Federal Building where the Harrisburg Seven have been on trial. He afterwards expressed support for the defendants, accused of conspiring to kidnap Henry A. Kissinger and to blow up heating tunnels at the capital. He said they had chosen between obedience to God and to notion. Joining him of the service were the Right Rev. Lloyd E. Gressle of the Diocese of Bethlehem and the Rt. Rev. Lyman C. Ogilby, Diocese of Pennsylvania.

The planning committee includes Sue Shier, Alice Strickler, Jean Koepfel, Marilyn Wittlinger and Marilyn Rutledge.

CHOIRS TO PERFORM

At Friday Chapel Service. A Service of Praise with the theme of "Freedom Now" will be held in the Princeton University Chapel Friday at 8 p.m.

It will feature choirs of approximately 400 participants from Rutgers University, Essex County College, United Youth for Christ, and the Renaissance Choir of the Pilgrim Cathedral Baptist Church, New York City.

An address will be given by the Rev. Roy Brown of the Pilgrim Cathedral Church. This service will be part of a conference for black students being held on the campuses of Rider College and Rutgers and Princeton Universities. Independently the choirs will sing Gospel songs appropriate to the occasion.

CRAFT CLINIC SET

At Pennington Church. An all-day craft clinic will be held Saturday, April 15, at the Pennington Presbyterian Church, featuring eight one-hour demonstrations and two two-hour workshops.

The craft clinic is set for 9:30 to 4, and participants will be able to attend five sessions during the course of the day.

Craftsmen include Theo Dimars, candlemaking; Camille Mueller, basic drawing; Jean Koepfel, picture framing and matting; Violet Rasweiler and Betts Dippel, preserving flowers; Marilyn Wittlinger, china painting; Carol Bradley, wall hangings and banners, Alice Strickler, hand puppets, and Joe Schoenig, leaded glass designs.

Workshop sessions will be led by Conrad Johnson of Trenton State College who will demonstrate projects using hand tools; by Maxine Taylor, paper craft, party decorations and seasonal ornaments, and there will also be workshops in macrame instruction.

Display tables in the church hall will offer decoupage, complete with directions; a variety of crafts to share with preschool children, "pebble people," or what to do with a stone; ceramics and folk art.

First choice in classes will go to those registering in advance. The fee of $5, to be accompanied by a list indicating live crafts in the order of preference, should be mailed to the church, Main Street, Pennington, by this Thursday. Participants are asked to bring their lunch. Dessert and coffee will be available.

Now that spring is here, does the thought of walking across your own high meadow and through your own dogwood-filled woods appeal? Then, come summertime, lazing on your spacious brick terrace, awaiting the barbecued goodies, cooling off in your own swimming pond? And when winter returns, how about a skating party on your own front lawn with a fire burning in the brick fireplace grill, or unwinding after work knocking a puck around with your kids? Just a hint of the year-round pleasure this lovely hillside four acres offers an outdoors loving family. The comfortable large yet easily manageable delightful 5 bedroom house makes indoor living just as pleasurable. Added attraction: The north-west Township location with subdividable lot makes the property an interesting investment. Offered at $189,500

This rambling frame house, nestled in a lovely wooded setting, conveys a feeling of its personality on first sight. The rustic atmosphere moves inside with paneling in many rooms, including the large living room with brick fireplace wall. Besides the big master bedroom (with bath), there are four more rooms (one with fireplace), a pantry-bar and a second bath on the first floor. The rooms are of varying size (one is about 25x47 for instance!) The upstairs is quite regular — four nice bedrooms, plus tiled bath. The two acres, including box stall, potential playhouse and pretty fenced pool with brick terrace, are an all-age playground. $89,500

Princeton Township Contemporary

A 3 bedroom (with a study that could be a 4th), 2½ baths, light, airy spacious house on almost 2 acres of forest hillside. Very private and convenient to all things in Princeton.

A large, slate floor living room with fireplace and a window wall opening onto a front and side patio. Overlooking a gurgling brook rambling through the front woods. A large separate dining room has a warm, intimate family quality. Kitchen and dining rooms both have easily maintained quarry tile floors. A cozy corner lounge area is a great place to curl up with a good book on quiet evenings. A large powder room completes the functional layout of the 1st floor.

The fully carpeted 2nd floor contains the master bedroom with bath and dressing area, 2 other bedrooms with balcony, another full bath, laundry area, and a book-lined study that doubles as a (4th) bedroom.

Throughout the house large windows reaching to the spacious open beam ceilings give a sense of participation in the forest and the changing seasons. The house design and sitting give plenty of privacy and protection.

Outside large hardwood trees surround the extensive flagstone patios, elaborate azalea and ground cover plantings, and beautifully built stone walls.

All in all, the best of several possible worlds in a house for civilized nature lovers. Offered at $65,000.

FOR THE RICH OR SUPER-RICH

High above the Delaware, an English stone mansion perfect as to appointments and position. The views of the historic river are spectacular. The 28-acre site is completely private, a melange of rugged cliffs, towering forest trees and huge banks of wild rhododendron.

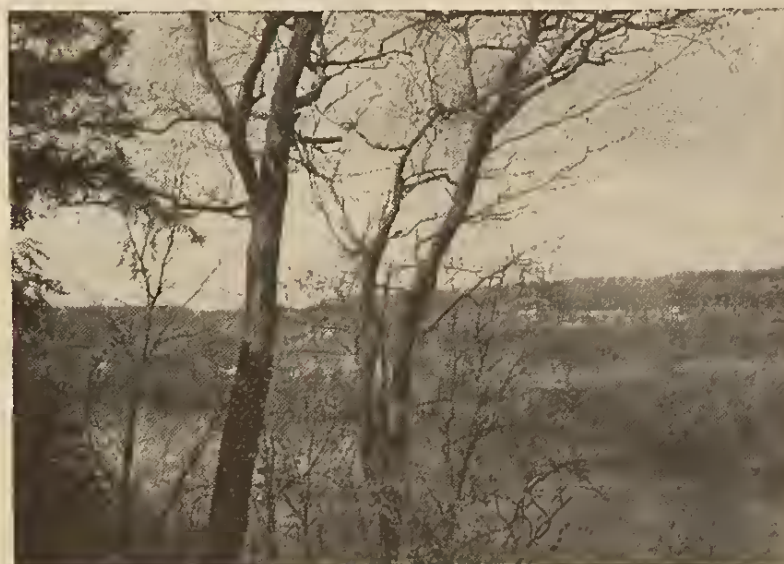

A wide entry hall with sweeping stairway opens to a beautifully proportioned living room, 25x32, with fireplace with 18th century Regency mantel. French doors lead to a covered porch with flagstone floor. There is a square panelled dining room easily seating 14 and a carpeted library, 15x25, with marble fireplace. The kitchen is not to be believed—custom cabinets, complete equipment, 50 electrical outlets, French tile floors plus a large breakfast area and bar facilities. Downstairs lavatory, walk-in guest closet.

Upstairs there is a 40' master bedroom with fireplace and adjoining master bath, 3 other bedrooms and 2 baths plus an open sundeck. Separate two-room suite for guests or help has its own bath and outside entry stairway.

Full dry basement with finished game room; oversized, heated two-car garage. Outside, a 20'x95' flagstone patio overlooks the river while a stone cabana serves the perfectly maintained swimming pool.

Some random extras—antique street lamps for outside lighting, complete burglar alarm system, auxiliary generator plus much more. $350,000 (Available with less acreage)
